KING AND QUEEN ESCAPE AS BOMBS BLAST PALACE

LONDON, Sept 13 (AP)—Five German bombs crashed on historic Buckingham Palace and its precincts today in London's longest daylight raid of the war, but King George and Queen Elizabeth, at the royal residence during the bombardment, escaped injury.

Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose were not in the palace at the time, officials announced.

Three members of the palace staff and three plumbers who were working there were slightly hurt.

It was the second bombing of the palace this week.

Two of today's bombs fell in the inner quadrangle of the palace, a third hit the private chapel in the south wing and the other two fell on a roadway between the Victoria Memorial and the palace gates.

The German raiders, coming singly and in small groups, kept London under a four hour and nine minute morning alarm. It started at 9:46 a. m.

British sources said the Germans appeared to strike particularly at London's most noted and cherished landmarks.

BOMB DOWNING ST.

An hour and 35 minutes later the third daylight alarm was signalled at 3:30 p. m.

The alarm lasted only 36 minutes, the "all clear" sounding at 4:08 p. m.

During the attack two screaming bombs plunged in central London. Clouds of smoke arose.

During the raid in which the palace was hit incendiary bombs fell in Downing st., where the residence of Prime Minister Winston Churchill is situated, but did no damage.

The following communique was issued this afternoon by the air ministry:

"Following last night's ineffective attacks, in which bombs were dropped in London at random through heavy clouds, a small number of enemy aircraft have today deliberately bombed a number of conspicuous buildings in London irrespective of their nature.

"It is feared that the enemy has succeeded in killing and injuring a number of civilians.

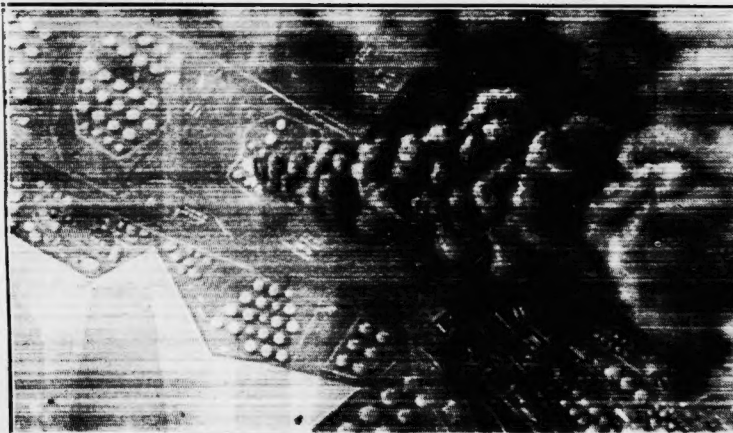

"Buckingham Palace was attacked, several bombs falling within the precincts, one of which damaged the palace chapel. Their Majesties were in residence, but fortunately escaped injuries. Three members of the

250,000 ITALIAN TROOPS MASS FOR DRIVE ON EGYPT

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 13 (AP)—Italy massed troops—reportedly 250,000 strong—along the Libyan-Egyptian frontier today and border artillery roared in crescendo as British and Egyptians prepared to meet the long-heralded Italian thrust to the east.

In Rome, unofficial reports said an Italian offensive against Egypt already was under way. The daily high command communique, however, mentioned no major land operations although it reported heavy day and night air bombardments on British positions such as might be the prelude to a drive. London official quarters said there was no confirmation of the beginning of an offensive.—Editor's note.

Military observers in Cairo predicted the Fascist drive would coincide with Adolf Hitler's projected attempt to invade England, just as Italy's entrance into the war was timed with Germany's full-scale offensive into France and as Soviet Russia's advance from the east squeezed Poland at the critical moment during the Nazi invasion a year ago.

Firing between British and Italian units echoed ominously as British reconnaissance fliers reported movements of fresh troops from the interior of Libya to the Port of Bardia, only 30 miles from the Egyptian border.

LINE'S STRENGTHENED

In particular, the Italians were reported strengthening their lines in a triangular area between Azeiz, Bardia and Ft. Capuzzo, which has borne the brunt of heavy British aerial attacks and shelling by British naval units operating off the coast.

Some observers hold that Italy's key role in the German-Italian war against Britain is to tackle the British in the Mediterranean at the right moment, striking probably at such strategic points as the Suez Canal, which would be the ultimate goal of a drive eastward through Egypt.

WEATHER FAVORS ATTACK
Two factors led observers to believe Italy would strike soon:

1—Weather conditions are considered more propitious now that the blazing heat of the desert summer has subsided. Reports from the frontier say the nights are so cool that soldiers sleep under three blankets.

2—Marshal Rudolfo Graziani, commanding the Italian forces, is believed by the British to have abandoned hope of getting reinforcements from home across the Mediterranean in the face of the British naval blockade of the Libyan coast. Thus, the British feel, he must try for a decisive blow before dissipating his ammunition.

Irish Rout Nazi After Bombing

BELFAST, Sept. 13 (AP)—A lone German warplane dropped incendiary bombs which started fires in a coastal town of northern Ireland today after an unsuccessful attack had been made on shipping offshore.

The ministry of public security said the fires were soon brought under control and that damage was slight. There were no casualties.

Fighter planes went after the raider and followed it out to sea. An auctioneer's premises, a public house and a private home were set afire. Two bombs fell in the main street close to an air raid shelter.

Hungary Takes Over Ceded Territory

KOLOSVAR (CLUJ), Hungary, Sept. 13 (AP)—Scattered disturbances in which shots were exchanged were reported today as the Hungarian army completed occupation of Rumanian-ceded northern Transylvania.

In some instances, Hungarian troops charged that withdrawing Rumanian forces tore down festive arches decorated with pictures of Hitler, Mussolini and Adm. Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary.

Draft Bill Rushed to Passage

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)

Congressional leaders confidently predicted today that peacetime conscription legislation would be on its way to the White House by nightfall to become the law of the land.

In both Senate and House the plan was to obtain the quickest possible action on the compromise version of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory service bill worked out by a joint conference committee to reconcile the differences between the two chambers on the measure.

With acceptance of the compromise generally taken for granted, the day's big question was how long it would take Congress to conclude action on the precedent-making bill which orders the registration of 16,500,000 men from the ages of 21 through 35 for possible military service.

Some said it would be only a few hours, others that it would take most of the day.

SESSION HOUR EARLIER

The Senate received the compromise version first and Majority Leader Barkley (D.) of Kentucky called the chamber into session an hour earlier than usual (at noon, Boston time) to expedite consideration.

House leaders were ready to act just as soon as the Senate approves the legislation and sends it across to their wing of the capitol. House regulations limit debate on the subject to a single hour.

The compromise version caused some expressions of dissatisfaction—chiefly from legislators who fought for the narrower 21 to 31 age limit, and the 60-day postponement in starting conscription.

One potential source of major dissension was believed largely eliminated by a last-minute committee change in the language of a provision authorizing the President to take over on a rental basis such essential industries as fail to cooperate with the defense program.

Blast Toll 39; FBI In Probe; 12 Missing

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

KENVIL, N. J., Sept. 13—Thirty-nine persons were known to be dead, at least a dozen more were missing, and about 200 were injured as a result of the series of explosions which yesterday afternoon wrecked the plant of the Hercules Powder Co. here. Property damage exceeded $1,000,000 and may reach $3,000,000. Eighty-five men were still in hospitals.

STORK HOVERS OVER SNITES

WAITS STORK—Mrs. Frederick B. Snite, Jr., wife of the famous infantile paralysis victim, today had entered Chicago Hospital . . . to wait the birth of a child expected within a few days. She was reported to be in splendid physical condition.

It was one of the worst munitions disasters in the history of the nation. And because the company, second largest producer of smokeless powder in the country, was working almost entirely on orders for the army, the Federal Bureau of Investigation is making an inquiry to determine the cause of the disaster.

Suspicion of sabotage arose immediately after the blasts leveled buildings at the 2000-acre plant. At least 25 buildings collapsed in ruins or were gutted by flames.

Detonations rocked the countryside and were heard 100 miles away.

Two bodies were found in the wreckage today, and one of the injured died in a hospital.

Six thousand pounds of nitroglycerine buried in the ground in the vicinity of the blast had not been detonated.

DIES, FBI IN PROBES

Dies committee agents and FBI men were at the scene this morning, checking the records of all employees for subversive connections. Investigators were seeking to determine whether any employees had been members or had attended meetings of the German-American Bund at Camp Norland at Andover, N. J., 15 miles away.

Meanwhile in Washington a resolution demanding an immediate congressional investigation of possible sabotage was placed before Congress by Rep. Anderson (D.) of Missouri. He asked a committee of five he named to conduct hearings "to determine if there is evidence of sabotage in this or in other national defense plants." The resolution was introduced amidst widespread demand of Capitol Hill for a thorough investigation.—Editor's note.

Two representatives of the British purchasing commission were on the ground but, so far as could be learned, they were not making any inquiry.

All production of smokeless powder at the plant was halted, impairing national defense plans.

BATH SHIP CHIEFS DENY PLOT STORY

BATH, Me., Sept. 13 (AP)—A State Police official was called to the Bath Iron Works today to "explain" his statement that 91 gasoline-filled fire extinguishers had been discovered in the plant, which currently is in the midst of a top-speed Navy destroyer-building program.

Lieut. Leon Shepard, head of the State Police fingerprinting bureau, made the statement in a speech to the South Portland Lions Club last night, prompting a request by L. Eugene Thebeau, shipyard treasurer, to acquaint plant officials with facts leading to his assertion.

William S. Newell, president of the iron works, branding the statement as "absolutely false," said that one fire extinguisher filled by mistake with "a cleaning fluid" had been found at the shipyard "a long time ago."

The discovery was investigated and it was learned that a trusted employee of the plant had inadvertently filled the extinguisher with the cleaning fluid, Newell added.

Shepard also said in his speech that a state-wide probe by State Police in co-operation with federal agents indicated that here was a "definite" fifth column threat in Maine.

In recent months there have been two minor fires at the shipyard but in neither case, officials said, was there evidence of incendiaries.

The shipyard is now working on more than $100,000,000 in orders, mostly on destroyers.

451,146 ALIENS REGISTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Justice Department announced today that 451,146 aliens have registered through Sept. 9 under the new alien control law.

Among the totals by states were: Connecticut, 20,693; Maine, 7609; Massachusetts, 46,706; New Hampshire, 4988; Rhode Island, 7122; Vermont, 1902; New York, 109,633.

Many See Woman's Death Plunge on 'L'

Before the eyes of more than 100 horrified spectators, a woman later identified as Mrs. Esther Peterson, a widow, of Park Drive, Back Bay, plunged to her death under a Cambridge-Dorchester subway train in the Park Street Under station.

Burns on the victim's body indicated she suffered a possible fatal shock from the electrified third rail in the few seconds before she was hit by the train, according to investigating officials.

SWAYS, THEN FALLS

The body was thrown clear of the track by the impact. It was recovered from the train pit by police and Elevated employees.

The train was operated by Motorman William J. Fahey of Bowdoin ave., Dorchester.

Witnesses told police the victim seemed to sway on her feet, as if, before her plunge from the platform.

Police Capt. William Donovan said he believed the death was accidental.

DRESSED ALL IN BLACK

The victim was described as 40 to 45 years old. She was dressed entirely in black and wore black gloves.

Police carrying the body to a waiting ambulance had to force their way through a crowd of several hundred curious spectators gathered about the street level exit.

The train, bound from Cambridge to South Boston and Dorchester, was delayed 10 minutes by the fatality.

2 IN FAKE MOVIE PLOT USE THREAT, GIRLS HERE CLAIM

Threats and attempts at real love-making were related today in complaints from girls who allegedly were fleeced by two suave movie promoters now sought in three cities by police.

MRS. VIOLET DALESSIO
Movie Scheme Victim

While New York, Chicago and St. Louis officers joined in the search for the accused men, E. Royal Harter and Frank J. Francis, an attractive Somerville mother, a Boston woman and a Boston youth told of their disillusionment.

The promoters are accused of having victimized several hundred Greater Boston girls of an estimated $70,000 by inducing them to pour their money in for screen and voice tests and production costs for a movie, "God Bless America."

Promoter Francis announced he had a "find" when he saw her daughter Corinne, said Mrs. Violet Dalessio, of School st., Somerville.

NEVER CALLED

The mother said she then paid $11 and $3.50 for two voice recordings, plus $5 down on the $25 screen test, which was never made. Five nights a week, Mrs. Dalessio worked with her little daughter in her singing. Francis, however, never called her for the singing part.

The promoter, she stated, tried to induce her to sign up for a role, but she withdrew because of his unwelcome advances.

Francis flew into a rage when she became suspicious of the type of camera used at the Bradford Roof, Mrs. Yvonne Newcomb of Edgerly rd. Back Bay said.

"If you ever tell anybody I asked you for money, I'll have you blacklisted in every school or studio in the country," Francis was quoted as saying.

Mrs. Newcomb said that account after she had paid the $11 fee for tickets to be sold to friends, and $3.50 for two voice recordings, and had been on the verge of borrowing $200 from her uncle for the usual "participating fee."

Bernard Waterman, 22, of Bay-st. st., gave police a clue when he placed Francis definitely from Brooklyn, N. Y.

"I often heard Francis speak of his mother, who lived there some, where in the Bay Ridge district," he said.

DIDN'T LIKE PARTS

Bernard, who paid $11 and obtained a voice recording, said he quit because he didn't like the parts assigned to him.

Another amateur, Earl McKeehan, 19, of Fellows West, Medford, declared:

"I went to seven rehearsals. All those brought to rehearsals were asked to pay production costs or made to sign a paper to sell 20 tickets at 55 cents for the premier of the picture—then I got disgusted as they kept looking for money, and walked out on them."

"Francis told me he'd get me a job in New York, as I had such promise and talent. He gave me a letter to Harry Richman. Richman told me he never heard of Francis when I went to New York. Then Francis wired me—collect—to hurry back, as he had a big part for me in the film. I quit."

$1,288,800 Bay State 2-Month Defense Tax

Massachusetts has poured $1,288,800 into Uncle Sam's defense kitty during July and August, Thomas B. Hassett, collector of internal revenue here, said today.

3 CAUGHT IN CHASE HELD FOR ROBBERY

Seized after a wild auto chase through Malden and Everett and a search of Malden river marshlands, two Everett youths and a third from Lynn were brought into Malden court today on charges of armed robbery, unlawful possession of firearms and use of an auto without authority.

Two of the defendants, Charles F. McClung, 19, and Dominic Juliano, 20, both of Everett, were held in $15,000 each, bail being set at $5000 on each count.

The third youth, William E. Sharp, 20, of Lynn, was held in $20,000, the extra $5000 being for a second gun-carrying count.

According to police, the three attempted to rob Peter Taroian, proprietor of a meat and provision store in Ferry st., Malden.

Sharp levelled a gun at the storeman, but the latter, a husky six-footer, grabbed a carving knife and ran at the bandits, putting them to flight, as police reconstructed the holdup story.

Patrolman James O'Donnell of the Everett police commanded an auto and pursued the bandit car, a stolen red sedan.

After O'Donnell had opened fire on the fugitives, they abandoned their machine at the edge of a big tract of marshland near the Malden river in Everett.

After Juliano had been questioned at Everett and Malden police stations, Sharp and McClung were arrested at their homes.

Woman Artist Scores Again In $15,000 Turner Stock Case

One more victory was won today in the long fight by Mrs. Mildred Turner (Billie) Copperman, honey-haired Cape Ann artist, to retain $15,000 worth of stock given her by the late Herbert B. Turner, internationally known Gloucester artist and author.

In a decision by Justice Stanley E. Quia, the full bench of Supreme Court rule that Turner's gift of the stock to her while they were traveling in Italy was not governed by the laws of that country but by the laws of the jurisdiction in which the corporation of the stock was located, or Massachusetts.

equity brought by the special administrator of Turner's estate against Mrs. Copperman, the Second National Bank of Boston and the Massachusetts Mohair Plush Co. of Boston.

Through the bill in equity the administrator sought to enjoin the bank, which is transfer agent for the plush company, from transferring the certificate of the stock shares to her name and to compel her to turn the stock over to the estate.

Fourteen months ago, Mrs. Copperman, who was 27 years old when she met the artist and author, then 53, in 1925 at Gloucester, won an earlier victory when the full bench of the Supreme Court upheld the validity of Turner's will, which bequeathed his $25,000 estate to her.

AWARDED COSTS

The will left Turner's invalid widow, Mrs. Evaline T. B. Turner of Brattleboro, Vt., only $100 and left three daughters but $1 each. They contested.

In the action decided today the full bench reversed the decision of Judge Joseph L. Hurley of superior court, who had ordered Mrs. Copperman to turn back the stock to the estate.

Today's decision, in addition to giving Mrs. Copperman the stock also awards her costs for the action.

The full bench decision cited that Turner died at the age of 85 years at Genoa, Italy, Oct. 27, 1937.

His wife had long been an invalid, and from May, 1929, she had been in a sanitarium in Brattleboro, Vt.

Turner had retired from a publishing business in 1913, and from then on devoted most of his time and attention to amateur photography and artistic pursuits.

In the summer of 1925 he met Mrs. Copperman in the artists' colony in Gloucester and "they became interested in and fond of each other." At that time she was still married.

TRAVELED TOGETHER

From 1926 on, when they went to France, they traveled together, except for short intervals, mostly in France, Spain, England and Italy "under pretense of being uncle and niece."

Some time before his death he withdrew $13,000 from the principal of a trust fund of which he was

MRS. MILDRED COPPERMAN
Court Okays Stock Gift

beneficiary, the trustee giving him that amount in the form of 130 shares of the Mohair Co.

He placed a certificate in an envelope and then in a bank vault, with Mrs. Copperman's name on the envelope. In Sept. 1937, in Italy, he handed her the envelope, saying:

"These are yours."

Hold 6th McMasters Case Man

John F. Driscoll, 83, of Shirley ave., Revere, pleaded innocent today in superior court at Dedham to three counts of a conspiracy indictment charging him with filing making and signing nomination papers of William H. McMasters of Belmont.

Driscoll, sixth defendant to be arraigned in the alleged conspiracy, was held for trial in $1000 bail by Judge Thomas H. Dowd.

Yesterday McMasters, ruled off the ballot as the National Pensioners party candidate for Governor, pleaded not guilty to counts of conspiring to file nomination papers knowing they were false, to obtain false signatures and to make false statements on the papers.

Previously arraigned have been John F. Aspell, former Democratic leader of the House; his brother, Robert Aspell; James F. O'Rourke, and Thomas J. Kerrigan. All have pleaded not guilty.

WILLKIE IN BLUNT ATTACK ON MOUNTING U. S. DEBT

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP)—Wendell Willkie told a crowd in the stock yards today that "if you elect me President, I shall never send an American boy to fight in any European war."

He also pledged himself to "build a domestic economy so strong that no dictator ever shall seek to strike."

Standing in a hay wagon in the heart of the huge packing house district, the Republican presidential nominee contended that the Administration had failed to solve the unemployment problem and contended that President Roosevelt, in his recent address before the teamsters' union, "promised labor everything except jobs."

"The failure of the last seven and a half years," he added, "has been the failure to produce jobs."

No amount of talking about affairs in Europe can cover up that abysmal failure to produce jobs."

CITES DEBT MENACE

"I predict," he said, "that if Franklin D. Roosevelt is reelected the public debt at the end of the next four years will be from 75 to 100 billions." He asked the crowd:

"Is there anybody here who is so damned dumb as to think that that can go on for four more?"

Members of the audience shouted:

"No."

Willkie declared that he stood for the "doctrine of putting America back to work" and stated:

"I do not promise the moon, but I do promise jobs in honest work, in honest industry . . . The only jobs today are in the defense program and Hitler is making us do that."

The nominee also attacked the Kelly-Nash Democratic organization, saying:

MUST CLEAN UP MESS

"I need help to clean out the mess. It will take several shovels just to clean out Chicago. I want to say to Kelly and to Pat Nash that when I get to be President there will be no income tax settlements."

"A lot of people had better do all they can to beat me because some penitentiary doors will be opening."

He did not elaborate.

Willkie later contended that President Roosevelt "doesn't know what it means to work with his hands or to produce things so that other men can work."

The speech in the unusual setting of the mile-square stock yards was the first of four arranged for the day in the city.

Upon his arrival at the Union station Willkie said he would speak "the truth in plain Indiana language."

The Republican presidential nominee, standing on a balcony of the station, spoke impromptu at the request of many from the throng which had gathered to greet him as he reached Chicago to give four addresses to industrial and Negro groups.

"My speeches," he declared, "will be political and I will name them as such. I will never dodge or hedge."

"This is a crusade and I call to you in the name of the democratic way of life in America."

After his brief talk, he and the remainder of his party boarded automobiles to be taken to their hotel headquarters for the 24-hour stay in Chicago.

Legion to Share Fun, Business Together

Grave problems in Europe, and their effect on America's future and its course of national defense, dominating factors to be discussed at the national convention of the American Legion, which opens in Boston a week from Sunday, will not deny Legionnaires and their families of the usual round of fun-making and entertainment.

Starting with the National Commander's dinner at the Hotel Statler Monday night, veterans, representing every individual outfit of the United States Army, Naval and Marine forces on land, sea and in the air, will gather with old buddies at special functions and reunions, to be held in practically every hotel in the metropolitan area.

SWING THROUGH HUB
Vets and their families, expected to number about 300,000, coming from every state in the Union, U. S. possessions and five foreign nation legion departments, will attend a gigantic concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra on the Esplanade Monday evening, followed by a huge air show and fireworks display in the Charles River Basin.

City to Rope Off Legion's Route

Work will begin Sunday roping off downtown streets for the big American Legion parade on Sept. 24, according to the announcement today by Mayor Tobin.

To rope off the parade route, distance of 2.2 miles, will cost the city $6500. Ten miles of rope will be used and more than 2000 iron stakes will be driven into gutters along the route.

In addition to roping streets, the city public works department will put 2000 men to work next week patching up spots along the route and four-footing sections of Beacon st., between Massachusetts ave. and Hereford st., Somerset, Tremont and Franklin sts.

100,000 Legionnaires, accompanied by 400 musical organizations of the Legion, its auxiliary and Sons and Daughters junior organizations, will swing through Hub downtown streets for more than 16 hours, beginning promptly at 9 a. m. Legion officials and police expect the largest crowd ever to witness a parade in this city, numbering 2,000,000, will line the two and one-half-mile route.

One of the convention highlights on the entertainment program will be staged at National League Park, Wednesday evening, when the "Cavalcade of Stars," sponsored by Schenely Post No. 1190, of New York City, will attract 40,000 persons.
Such top notch entertainers as Ben Bernie and Tommy Dorsey of orchestral fame, Sophie Tucker, "last of the red hot mamas," Bill Robinson, stage and screen veteran tap dancing star, along with a bevy of beautiful chorus girls, will present the greatest outdoor show ever witnessed in the Hub.

Mrs. Dunbar Opens Old Custody Battle

Friends of the socialite Dunbars of Newton have almost forgotten the dramatic, but unsuccessful court fight that Mrs. Bonney L. Dunbar waged a dozen years ago for custody of her son, Bruce, but today the battle was begun anew.

Mrs. Dunbar, since divorced by the Reno route, filed a petition in Middlesex Probate Court charging her ex-husband was an "unfit person" to have custody of the boy, who is now 20 years old.

She asked that the court appoint as Bruce's guardian Vernon B. Hitchins of Dedham, trust officer of the State Street Trust Co.

The former husband is Philip R. Dunbar, a Boston attorney, of Howland rd., West Newton. Mrs. Dunbar gives her present address as Alton, N. H.

Dunbar has been prominent in legal circles for years, first winning fame in 1911 as counsel for the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, who was executed for the murder of Avis Linnell of Hyannis.

After a long, drawn-out trial in Middlesex courts, the father was given custody of Bruce in December, 1928, except for Saturdays every other holiday and a month in summer.

He won the case when Mrs. Dunbar testified she had "tried" of marrying another man after a divorce.

CENSUS BOOM ON IN CALIF.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—Evidence of a major shift in American population during the drought and depression years of the '30's came today in a census report that California's residents increased 1,196,437 in the decade.

The report showed California's population increased from 5,677,251 in 1930 to 6,873,688 this year.

Where many of these people came from was indicated by census figures that five Midwest states—South Dakota, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska—had 200,830 fewer residents than 10 years ago.

Camp Edwards Gets $7,240,462

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The War Department announced today the award of contracts totaling $10,474,078.

The largest contract, for $7,240,462, went to the Walsh Construction Co. of Long Island City, N. Y., for temporary buildings at Camp Edwards, Falmouth, Mass. The department's announcement said this contract was on a negotiated fee basis.

Plunge in N. Y. Kills Brookline Woman

Tentatively identified by New York police as Mrs. Marguerite S. Myers of Beacon st., Brookline, a woman who registered at the Hotel New Yorker in New York plunged to her death today from her 17th floor room in the hotel.

Just before the body struck the pavement in Eighth ave. it crashed into the building and was decapitated. The dramatic death plunge drew thousands of curious persons into the area and traffic in the fur district was tied up for half an hour.

Detectives said they were told by the hotel management the woman registered last night as Mrs. Marguerite S. Myers, but gave an address in Prospect st., Cambridge. She is not known at that address, Cambridge police reported.

The tentative identification came when detectives and Dr. John Murphy of St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, who responded with the ambulance, found on her person letters addressed to Mrs. Marguerite Myers at an apartment block in Beacon st., Brookline, near Marion st.

At that address a woman, who stated she was a member of the family, said Mrs. Myers left Boston yesterday for New York to do some shopping, and last night telephoned her husband from Manhattan and said she was stopping at the New Yorker.

Air Exporters To Be Licensed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt clamped license requirements today on the export of certain plans and supplies for aircraft, in order to "strengthen further the national defense."

The Presidential proclamation, made public at his press conference, added to the export license list equipment used for producing aviation motor fuel and tetraethyl lead or any plans or specifications used in the design, construction, or operation of such equipment; and plans, specifications and descriptive or technical information of any kind setting forth the design or construction of aircraft or aircraft engines.

ZINSSER'S WILL GIVES $362,000

Dr. Hans Zinsser, Harvard professor and internationally famed bacteriologist, who died Sept. 4, left personal property of approximately $350,000 and real estate valued at $12,000, the bond filed by executors of his will indicated today.

The will, dated Sept. 26, 1939, filed in probate court, names Alty, Henry L. Shattuck, Hans Zinsser, his son, and Vernon Munroe of New York city, son-in-law, as executors. All property is left to the Zinsser family.

Surviving Zinsser are his widow, Mrs. H. to Hamilton Zinsser; the daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Zinsser Munroe of New York city and the son, Hans Zinsser.

Dr. Zinsser died at the Memorial Hospital in New York of leukemia, with which he was undergoing treatment for cancer and allied diseases.

Award of the nature of his malady which he himself first diagnosed in 1935, turned to writing in the last years of his life and just this year published a biography, "As I Remember Him," in which he described the pleasure of his last days.

The major scientific contribution of Zinsser was the development of a method of mass vaccination against typhus fever. He made his home in Boston at 52 Chestnut st., Beacon Hill.

2 Killers Die in Sing Sing Chair

OSSINING, N. Y., Sept. 13 (IN3)
—“Little Benny” Ertel, 25, and Frank Blazek, 30, went silently to their deaths in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison here.

Ertel, who took part in a hold-up during which Detective Michael Foley was killed, was executed first.

Blazek killed his sweetheart, Virginia Bender, 18, in a fit of jealousy.

"I didn't realize what I was doing when it happened," he had told prison guards as he sat down to his last meal of chicken.

"I don't deserve such a terrible fate"

"Little Benny," who vainly hoped until the last minute for a reprieve said:

"I never killed anybody. I'm getting an awful break."

F. D. Urges Congress Speed Up Vital Defense Deliveries

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt sent Congress today, with his endorsement, a defense commission declaration of policy which had for its basic theme that "speed of delivery on all items of the defense program is essential."

"This means," the commission said, "that orders should be placed to insure 'the most efficient use of each particular facility from the point of view of the program as a whole'; that proper consideration should be given to contributor industries, such as the machine industry, to 'avoid creating underlying bottlenecks,' and that once delivery dates are fixed 'assurance be given that they will be met by the supplier.'"

Accompanying the list of general principles was a statement of labor requirements the commission adopted Aug. 31 as a guide for contractors.

CITIES IMPORTANCE

"I consider these two documents to be of such importance," the President said, "as to justify my sending them to the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives as a matter of information. The values of these policies and principles to the government, to industry, agriculture, laborers and to the country, section-ally and as a whole, will be seen at once."

The commission's declaration made these other two points on the letting of contracts:

"Proper quality is also of prime importance."

"Price, while not the sole consideration, is of outstanding significance, and every effort must be made to secure a fair price."

"Due regard to the necessity of protecting civilian needs and morale is needed as is also consideration to possible off-season production in order to dovetail the military program into production for civilian requirements."

"Adequate consideration must be given to labor."

"Undue geographic concentration of orders should be avoided. Financial responsibility of the supplier should be examined."

"The avoidance of congestion of transportation facilities should be sought. The same applies to warehousing facilities."

"Due consideration should be given to the adequacy of power facilities."

"A general preference should be given to firms having experience with so-called educational orders."

"The moral responsibility of the supplier is important, and in some respects, fundamental."

"The commission recognizes that competitive bidding is the better procedure in certain types of industry and circumstances but recommends that the use of the negotiated contract be authorized where necessary."

FOR 40-HOUR WEEK

Explaining the point regarding off season production, he said the garment industry was an illustration. He said this industry had two slack periods each year and that an effort would be made to dovetail its orders so they would fill in the slack seasons and bring less dislocation.

The labor policy statement declared that in order to absorb the unemployed "all responsible efforts" should be made to keep the work week to 40 hours, exceeding that figure only when necessary, and paying extra for overtime work.

It also stated a belief that all work carried on under the defense program should comply with federal, state and local labor laws.

GERMAN'S BOAST OF RUIN HEAPED ON LONDON IN RAIDS

BERLIN, Sept. 13 (AP)—The German air force stepped up its siege of London today in fierce daylight assaults which were reported to have unloaded fresh destruction with "extraordinary accuracy" on the British capitals docks and industries.

Although Berliners slept through the night without air raid alarms, authorized sources said these "retaliatory" attacks on London and other parts of England would continue without let-up.

Besides the daylight attacks on London, another foray against southern England was said to have put one airplane factory out of production.

The high command reported that during the night new fires and explosions were set off in London and Liverpool and heavy damage inflicted on Bexhill, Brighton, Bangor and other places in southern England.

SCENE OF HORROR

Light British naval forces attempted to shell Boulogne, in German-held France, during the night, but were driven off by Nazi coastal batteries without damage, its communiqué said.

It admitted British night raiders swept over northern and western Germany and dropped bombs on residential sections and one village.

but declared that they failed to reach their goals.

Hans Reichenberg, right-hand man of Economic Minister Walter Funk and participant in several Nazi raids on London, described west London's dock section as a scene of havoc.

"Ordered life in the British capital is well-nigh impossible," declared Reichenberg, who left his economics ministry post first to become a parachutist and later a gunner in bombers and mine-laying planes.

ATHIRST FOR REVENGE

In sea warfare today's communiqué reported a lone German U-boat had sunk six British armed merchantmen totaling 57,600 tons, including one 7000-ton steamer already reported. Another 8000-ton freighter was said to have been damaged severely southwest of the Isle of Man.

Despite the failure of the attack of the British to attack Berlin last night, Germans declared more "retaliation" is in order for London as a result of yesterday's assaults on Hamburg and Bremen, where 11 persons were killed.

A Nazi spokesman in Berlin said British planes crossed the border into Germany during the night but either had another objective or were turned back by an "increasingly effective" German defense by night pursuit planes and artillery.

AGAIN BOMB DOCKS

Nazi raiders returning today from the sixth consecutive all night attack on London reported bombing west and central sections of the British capital, including the vicinity of Waterloo bridge, and said a chain of fires could be seen stretching all the way from London to the southwest coast.

These blazes, the pilots asserted, marked places where other German night raiders had dived on British objectives.

Downing Street, but did no damage.

Several German raiding planes were reported shot in the new attack. Observers reported seeing a number of airmen bailing out of their crippled planes.

The court correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, heard the roar of engines and then saw a twin-engined bomber dive from the clouds at the palace.

As the plane came over the center of the royal residence the pilot appeared to cut his engines and the machine lost speed.

Then came the whistle of bombs and explosions were heard in rapid succession.

ROYALTY IN SHELTERS

Inside the palace the King and Queen with most members of the household staff already had gone to shelters underneath the palace.

They were there when the bombs crashed. The Exchange Telegraph correspondent was thrown to the ground by pieces of stone and masonry. Smoke shot into the air and a few passersby who had dared the alarm to remain outside shelters scrambled quickly to cover.

As the bombs plummeted down from the gliding plane the engine coughed, restarted and with a fresh roar the attacker climbed into the clouds again.

Other bombs incendiaries, fell close to the palace.

Soldiers from Wellington barracks dashed across the palace grounds with spades and other implements and aided by the auxiliary fire service, quickly extinguished fires near the palace.

KING, QUEEN SEE RAIN

Shortly after the "all clear" sounded the King and Queen walked through the cellars of the palace and talked with members of the staff.

Late. Their Majesties went to the ruined chapel to inspect the damage. They left the palace on a tour of London areas which had been hit yesterday.

The servants of the King and Queen are in the north wing, on the opposite side of the palace from the chapel.

The two bombs falling in the quadrangle dug out large craters. A water main burst and water geysered high. Many windows of the south wing were blown out and the walls were pitted by flying debris.

Two bombs which fell in the roadway outside the palace close to the Victoria Memorial caused a fire.

BRITISH STOP RAIDERS

The raid, second of the morning started at 9:46 a. m. The first, at 7:37 a. m., lasted 53 minutes and caught Londoners by surprise as they were at breakfast or on crowded trains, buses and boats going to work.

This first raid came only one hour and 54 minutes after the end of the sixth all-night alarm of eight and a half hours, in which, however Britain's new "all out" alert barrage for the second time kept most of the raiders at a distance from the central city.

Widespread attacks were reported over the rest of Britain, however, particularly in the Midlands and Lancashire, north of Liverpool. Belfast reported an incendiary bomb attack on northern Ireland where bombs in the main street of a town set some houses afire.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed, London has suffered 1175 dead and approximately 1500 injured since Saturday and severe damage to a great many historic buildings in these mass bombings.

Today's raiders were aided by a cloudy sky which gave them cover. Londoners, unaccustomed to raids in the early part of the forenoon, were caught by surprise when the sun's slanted their face warning.

The time a wave of raiders appeared to have come over the London area and then split up, some going toward the southwest and others toward the northwest.

Basis of warfare fashed in all directions as the ground defenses opened an intensive barrage.

BATTERIES OPEN UP

One lone raider dropped several incendiary bombs which fell in a roadway and were quickly extinguished by air raid wardens. Puffs of smoke appeared all around the plane as it turned and apparently retraced its course.

Fires broke out in another London district as incendiary bombs fell.

Several German planes flew low and fast over still another London district, and the scream of falling bombs was heard, followed by loud explosions.

Anti-aircraft fire was particularly heavy over the northern end of the city.

Although some high explosive and incendiary bombs fell in the capital during the night, the raiders failed to reach central London in force and a government communique said damage was the lightest since the massed raids began last Saturday. Casualties were said to be small.

Bremen in Flames, British Fliers Report

LONDON, Sept. 13 (INS)—Gigantic fires started by British air raiders today were reported covering Bremen, Germany's second largest seaport, with a virtual blanket of smoke and flame.

Returning from far-flung attacks, RAF pilots said that nearly all the docks, warehouses and yards at Bremen were burning and that the fires, viewed from the air, looked like a single terrific conflagration, casting a glow that could be seen from the German-Netherlands frontier.

The destructive raids on Bremen marked a series of renewed assaults by British bombers against Nazi invasion preparations on the French coast of the English Channel and against targets in the Reich's largest cities, including Berlin.

One Nazi supply ship was said to have been sunk and two others were reported damaged as a result of the British raids against German-held invasion "springboards." The R. A. F. blows against German shipping along the French coast coincided with attacks on Bremen, Wilhelmshaven and Berlin, as well as other German cities.

Tempelhof airbase at Berlin, Europe's largest airport, the Anhalter and Potsdam railway stations and Aanti-aircraft batteries in Berlin's Tiergarten were said to have been blasted by demolition and incendiary bombs.

tion and equipment in desultory fighting.

POLICY OF DAINTING

The British have been declared to be pursuing a policy of letting the Italians spend their supplies in indecisive fighting.

British commanders in Egypt therefore have adopted a "wait and see" attitude, plainly giving the impression they feel fully prepared to meet any Italian drive.

Egyptian soldiers, withdrawn from border garrisons two months ago, have returned to their posts.

While British forces facing the Italians along the frontier are acknowledged to be much smaller than the Fascist army, they are said to comprise experienced desert fighters.

LAND MORE TROOPS

Recently Britain has landed thousands of soldiers in Egypt to reinforce the 60,000 British troops reported on Egyptian soil last May.

Egypt herself has a British-trained army of about 20,000.

Cathedral Bomb Fails; May Be Dud

LONDON, Sept. 13 (INS)—Twenty-four hours after it crashed in front of St. Paul's Cathedral in the heart of London, a German aerial bomb remained unexploded today, leading to belief that the missile is a dud and not a delayed-action explosive.

Military authorities, who have cordoned off the streets in the surrounding area and ordered business establishments closed in the vicinity, have inspected the bomb, and are expected to make an announcement shortly.

JAPS SEEK ANTI-U. S. RED PACT

TOKYO, Sept. 13 (AP)—The newspaper Kokumun, often a spokesman for the army, asserted today that the Japanese government was making special efforts to reach an understanding with Soviet Russia on the ground that the United States' preparedness program is directed at Japan.

A rapprochement is being sought in order to safeguard Japan's rear because, the newspaper said, relations between the United States and Japan are "fraught with the danger of war."

"DEADLY PLANS"
America, the article continued, is offering severe strategic, economic and political opposition to Japan, indicating "deadly preparedness and definite plans."

As evidence, the newspaper cited appropriations for a two-ocean navy, and contended that the leasing of British territories in the Atlantic for naval bases would be followed by similar moves in the Pacific.

It ridiculed American declarations that the proposed bans of scrap iron and gasoline are for purposes of national defense. The real reason, the article claimed, is to deny these commodities to Japan. Weighty political pressure was seen in Secretary of State Cordell Hull's remarks relative to the maintenance of the status quo in Indo China.

"NOT GERMANY"
In discussing the American preparedness program, the paper said: "The potential enemy they have in mind is not so much Germany as Japan. Relations between the two nations are so acute that it may be said without exaggeration that there is almost no issue not charged with the danger of war."

"This dangerous, gloomy situation is all of American making. As far as Japan is concerned, nothing the United States has done or contemplated doing is friendly or reasonable. Everything has been provocative and overhearing."

Kelly to Speak To Ad Club Men
National Comdr. Raymond J. Kelly of the American Legion will make his first public pro-convention appearance next Tuesday when he addresses a Hotel Statler luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club of Boston on "Americanism and National Defense."

$5000 for Hot School Lunches

There will be 1500 Boston school children who will get hot lunches this year.

This was promised today by Mayor Tobin, who said he will set aside $5000 from the field day funds, and will use WPA labor to provide the food at 10 schools.

The plan was tested last year at the John A. Andrew School with a $1500 grant and pronounced a success.

228 Historic London Churches Damaged

LONDON, Sept. 13 (INS)—Eight of London's famous historic churches have been damaged in German air raids in the past several days along with Somerset House, fashionable Berkeley sq., the world-renowned Regent st. shopping center, and Rotten Row in Hyde Park, the ministry of information announced today.

The churches, all located in the very heart of London, include the famous St. Giles, burial site of John Milton, and St. Magnus the Martyr on lower Thames st., near the London bridge.

The other churches affected by the raids were St. Stephen's in Cannon st., St. Mary's at Hill, St. Dunstons in East, St. Mary Woolnoth, St. Clements in Eastcheap, and St. Augustine's.

One wing of Somerset House is Kings College, part of the University of London. Recently seized the street's "Fash House", the largest office building in London. The famous Waterloo bridge, standing the Thames, is within 100 yards of the damaged structure.

Damage in the ultra smart shopping center of Regent st. was caused by a delayed action bomb which blew a gigantic crater in the street, shattering glass for hundreds of yards around. The bomb landed within a block of Piccadilly Circus. Hardest hit were the showrooms of the Ford Motor Co. and the Piccadilly Hotel.

Trinity square, the aristocratic residential quarter made famous in Thackeray's writings, still contains many of its original homes built in the 1700's.

St. Magnus the Martyr, designed by Christopher Wren, topped with a spire, is one of London's oldest churches.

Five unexploded bombs dropped in recent raids lie in the vicinity of St. Pauls Cathedral, the British Press Assn said today.

The church and nearby area are guarded day and night to keep passersby and traffic at a distance on the possibility that the bombs may explode at any moment.

Two of the bombs were discovered in a street near by.

Veteran Hub Teacher Dead of Gas Fumes

Nobody could understand when the Warren school in Charlestown opened why William R. Kramer, beloved 60-year-old sub-master, failed to appear.

He had been to the pre-school meeting of the faculty the day before, ready to start his 39th year as a teacher, his 30th in the Boston school system. Miss Martha Norton, principal, tried vainly to reach him on the telephone.

Today police broke down the door of Kramer's suite in a Harvard St. Cambridge apartment house. Kramer was dead in his bed. Gas was pouring from jets in the kitchen stove.

Members of Kramer's family in Clinton, where he was born, reported that the dead man had been in poor health for some years, suffering chronically from arthritis.

Unmarried and an enthusiastic globe traveler during his summer vacations, Kramer had visited nearly every country in the world. Of recent years he had been a flying fan, taking air trips throughout Canada, Central and South America.

"There was no person more beloved by children and teachers alike," Supt. of Schools Arthur L. Gould said today. "I knew him for 39 years. He was happy in his work, content to remain as a classroom teacher. I am deeply grieved."

Kramer was a graduate of Bridgewater Normal School and had taught in Lancaster, Winchendon and Quincy before coming to Boston. He entered the Boston school system as sub-master in the Hugh O'Brien district in Roxbury, then was transferred, in 1918, to the Warren school.

A brother, Paul Kramer, of Clinton, was expected here today.

The Record of a "Fiscal Heresy"

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

The Republicans like to describe themselves as the guardians of sound fiscal and economic policies. No "visionary schemes" or "brain-trust" philosophies for them. And yet a major factor in bringing on the severe depression of a decade ago was the reckless disregard of sound banking legislation by three successive Republican Administrations.

Leo Crowley, Chairman of FDIC

The people still have painful memories of the wholesale collapse of banking institutions in the anxious days which preceded President Roosevelt's entrance into the White House early in 1933. Few realize that the gradual breakdown of the savings system had commenced as early as 1922. The record shows that to be a fact and as a result nearly a whole generation of thrifty people were the victims.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has been in existence for more than six years and during that period it has made an excellent record in stabilizing and safeguarding the nation's banks. In fact, its position today is so strong that no responsible person, in Congress or out of it, would dream of calling for its demise.

The Republicans, of course, claim a share of the credit for setting up the Corporation. They claim that a Republican Senator first introduced the bill. Maybe so. But the Hoover Administration declined to pass it and the Republican platform of 1932 spoke of deposit insurance as one of the Democratic "heresies" which the G. O. P. leaders had managed to kill off in the preceding Congress. It was a "crackbrained" scheme then. The idea was still prevalent that if the government merely waited out the depression, the storm clouds would pass.

WHEN THE BANKS WERE TOPPLING

In the four years before President Roosevelt's inauguration, there were 6035 bank suspensions in the United States. The number does not include the 3413 banks which were unable to open after the banking holiday. The figure 6035 rolls off the tongue so easily that it is difficult to imagine the toll of suffering and hardship brought on by these failures, most of them in small communities. Farmers were unable to dig up mortgage payments to stave off foreclosure. Home owners were in the same fix. Small merchants and business men in many instances were deprived of their reserve capital. Buying power was drastically cut.

Since the FDIC was established, bank failures have been reduced to an average of 51 a year. And that tells only a part of the story. The depositors are 98 per cent insured against loss because deposits are insured up to a maximum of $5000, which covers nearly all accounts.

The FDIC has also been highly successful in conserving the assets of closed banks, cutting down losses to stockholders. There were only 14 national bank failures in the period between 1934 and 1939.

The 5184 active national banks had total assets of more than thirty-five billions of dollars on March 26, 1940, the highest ever reported in the system. Total deposits on the same date reached an all-time peak of nearly thirty-two billions, more than seven and a half billions above the figure for 1928. Reserve savings of that size show a strong public faith in the security of the banking system.

The Securities and Exchange Act was another Democratic heresy which had the almost unanimous opposition of the sound finance advocates whose short-sighted policies brought on the stock market collapse.

SAFEGUARDS FOR INVESTORS

Under their theory of conserving assets, the value of listed securities on the big board in New York had shrunk to $18,700,000,000 in 1933. The total value is now above forty billions. No financial system could stand the reckless and, very often, crooked practices which flourished in the gaudy days of the boom market. One holding company purchased securities at $50,000,000 on one day and sold them the next for twice that sum. The investment was "water" and the investing public held the bag when the crash came. That is only one example of "sound financing."

The Securities and Exchange Commission does not guarantee securities or even pass on them. It does, however, insist that the full truth about an issue be made available to the public BEFORE an issue is put on the market for sale. The purpose is to protect investors from palpable fraud.

Since the act went into effect, nearly 400 bucket shop operators have been prosecuted and sent to prison. In the good old days, when the sky was the limit, it was estimated that stock swindlers took a toll of nearly one billion dollars a year from gullible investors.

There is no accurate way of telling how much money has been actually saved to investors by the vigilant supervision of the Securities and Exchange Commission. It is fairly evident, however, that the stock racketeers who lured millions from unwary buyers are finding the going tougher than it used to be.

The public seems to be bearing up under these Democratic heresies fairly well. Stock promoters may resent their loss of personal liberty but even the Republicans in Congress are deaf to their entreaties.

What Price Good Neighbor Policy!

By CARLISLE BARGERON

(Assigned by Republican National Committee)

The story of Mr. Roosevelt's Good Neighbor Policy, on the opposite side of the page the other day, was incomplete. For the little drama we are about to relate to you, we are mostly indebted to Mr. Marquis W. Childs, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a Pulitzer prize winner for outstanding newspaper reporting, a noted author and magazine writer. You can also find it in the Congressional Record.

In 1938, the Communist Government of Mexico reciprocated the New Deal's "Good Neighbor Policy" by seizing some $400,000,000 worth of American owned oil property. In those days the revolutionary Cardenas Government and the New Dealers were as thick as fleas. One of our leading New Dealers, Edwin S. Smith, member of the National Labor Relations Board, went down to Mexico City and attended a meeting of the Communist labor federation. At the meeting they sang the Internationale and as our Mr. Smith harangued the delegates, the Communist flag hung over him. This visit was subsequently returned by Mr. Vicente Toledano, the Communist labor chief. The New Dealers were enraptured by him.

New Dealers' Ed Smith

Secretary of State Cordell Hull over a period of several months sent repeated protests about the oil seizures to the Mexican Government, but the evidence is convincing that as fast as he did so, the New Dealers would tell the Mexican Ambassador in Washington not to take the protests seriously.

Then Mr. W. R. Davis, an internationally known oil operator, came into the picture. He arranged to barter the seized oil with Germany. Here our Government was helping the Mexican Government to remain in power by paying an artificial price for its silver for which we have no use; the Mexican Government was seizing the property of American citizens, and another American citizen, in turn, was trading this property to Germany to help it prepare for war. It was a fine state of affairs, indeed.

But this isn't the last of it. Through Mr. Childs' enterprise, it was revealed that Mr. Davis was probably the LARGEST SINGLE CONTRIBUTOR TO THE NEW DEAL CAMPAIGN OF 1936.

The Money Rolled In

It has never been fully disclosed just exactly how much Mr. Davis gave the New Dealers. He turned over $291,286 to Mr. Walter A. Jones, a Pennsylvania oil operator. Some of it, Mr. Davis has said, went to Mr. Jones as salary, the rest as campaign contributions. Mr. Davis has said that $50,000 went to the Democratic National Committee as a loan.

"The remaining funds received by Mr. Jones were used," Mr. Davis has said in a letter which Mr. Childs acquired, "principally in the following manner: About $100,000 for the purpose of paying for radio broadcasts and canned speeches as I call them; about $75,000 in the State of Pennsylvania alone; the remainder was given to certain Senators supporting the Administration, whose names I am not privileged to mention, to further their campaigns."

In his story in the Post-Dispatch of April 6, Mr. Childs relates that Mr. Davis had written he had OBTAINED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S APPROVAL for his German trade plan at a conference at the White House in May, 1936. It was after he obtained this approval, the famous Davis letter said, that he decided to go down the line for the New Deal!

Pennsylvania's Joe

It was a rather ambitious plan for "world trade" which Mr. Davis says he discussed with Mr. Roosevelt. He also says that Mr. Roosevelt never carried out the "promises" he made. Mr. Davis' famous letter disclosed him to be quite bitter about the whole business.

Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, one of the prime movers in the Third Term Brigade, figured in Mr. Childs' disclosures. It developed that a short while before the oil seizures took place, he had taken Mr. Jones down to Mexico City. Joe indignantly denied that he was involved any more than to be of some assistance to his friend Jones. He would do most anything for "Walter Jones," he exclaimed. A few months ago he and Jones were opponents in Pennsylvania's senatorial primary campaign but just what the set-up was in that instance, whether it was a bona fide fight or not, the Pennsylvania political writers can best say, perhaps the Philadelphia Inquirer's John Cummings.

When the oil matter was given an airing on the Senate floor, Joe screamed that Mr. Childs' story was a "lie." Mr. Childs sued him for $50,000. Subsequently, Joe apologized and said the facts contained in the story were "substantially true."

GOVERNOR SEES JOBS IN DEFENSE

A note of prosperity, stimulated by national defense programs, was sounded today at the windup session of the convention of the Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts in Swampscott.

Lending the promise of just, day Saltonstall told the delegates of a completed survey which shows every foot of surplus manufacturing and storage space that exists in the state.

"I believe this not only to be an aid to national defense, but also a substantial part of the answer to our all-important problem of jobs in private industry," the governor stated.

"Quick use of these facilities means rapid increases of jobs expansion of payrolls and more home building."

Deposits in the mutual savings banks of the country reached a record high of $10,500,000,000 this year, distributed among 15,000,000 accounts, President Myron E. Converse of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, declared.

Massachusetts' Comm'r of Banks Joseph E. Perry described bankers as "defenders of a key position in the greatest conflict yet waged by mankind." He said that the "quickest road to down fall would be for people to lose faith in the integrity and efficiency of our form of government on economics."

Speaking as the head of the association, Charles C. Handy, who is also president of the First Five Cents Savings Bank, said that "savings banks are a great reservoir into which pour a steady stream of small savings, which, in turn, are lent to industry and to government and make possible the expansion of industrial plans now so vitally needed."

IT is back to school time in Boston, with more than 150,000 boys and girls making or renewing the acquaintance of classrooms.

From mansion and tenement come these children; from ancestries as numerous as the nations of the earth; from racial and religious traditions as varied as the flowers in a mid-Summer garden.

But here, now, all inherited differences and disagreements are put aside.

These young Americans stand together—all of them free, all of them equal, all of them entitled to make as much of their lives as their talents and ambitions permit.

The dark-haired boy who trudges to grammar school today may be a tomorrow's President.

The blonde girl who dances by, gaily chatting with her chums, may some day be the Madame Curie of the happier, more enlightened future.

There are no restrictions on any child, no barriers to block his progress, no segregation to break his spirit.

More than anything else, our American educational system, of which Boston schools are a glorious example, insures the preservation of democracy in this still war-less land.

THE IMMINENT DRAFT will affect Massachusetts much less than most other States, military authorities say.

Because of the large number of men we already have in the country's armed forces, including the National Guard, our conscription quota will be relatively small.

In fact, some communities may not have to part with a single young man.

Nonetheless, at least seven hundred thousand youthful citizens and aliens will have to register if the Burke-Wadsworth Bill receives Congressional and Presidential approval, which seems likely.

And each will do so with a feeling of mingled doubt and uncertainty.

It is a good deal like a garden party raffle. Somebody holds the number that is going to be drawn. Somebody is going to say "Bingo!" or whatever it is that winning lottery number holders say.

As a result, thousands will hesitate to begin new ventures or to plan ahead as they might have done if this threat of a year's compulsory absence from home did not exist.

How much wiser and better would have been the democratic Swiss system of universal military training which would have taken no man from his job and family and which, at the same time, would have extended the benefits of defensive education not to a mere handful, but to all able-bodied men!

DOUBLE TROUBLE hangs over the heads of superstitious folks today. It is Friday and it is also the thirteenth. Each is traditionally bad. But the union of the two is supposed to be much worse.

Fortunately, most people will not be disturbed. The average individual has come safely through many previous such days. The odds favor his surviving this one.

It is interesting to recall the cause of Friday the 13th's bad reputation.

Historians generally agree that Friday became an omen of death because of its association with the Crucifixion.

The numeral 13 fell from grace because the Bible tells us that seated at the Last Supper were thirteen persons—Christ and His twelve apostles.

But this is hardly reason for anyone's locking his house door, drawing the shades and staying in bed.

The Lord, very probably, is more interested in what we do than in which day we choose to do it.

That was the philosophy of the late Pope Pius, who left his sick room on a Friday the 13th after an illness of 72 days and resumed his important efforts in behalf of world peace.

TO SAVE YOUNG LIVES, Representative George J. O'Shea of Lynn has filed a carefully considered bill with the Legislature.

If two riders are caught on a bicycle built for one, the O'Shea-sponsored law would cause the vehicle to be impounded by the local police department for six months.

The purpose, obviously, is to promote highway safety by giving to municipal authorities the right to inflict a form of punishment that parents have long found to be most effective.

There are many arguments for a statute of this kind, and they will undoubtedly be heard when the proposal is debated.

We prefer the argument that concerns the more than seven hundred deaths and thirty-five thousand injuries attributed to bicycle mishaps throughout the nation last year.

If all States had laws similar to the one which Mr. O'Shea wants Massachusetts to enact, at least a third of the seven hundred dead cyclists might be living.

On The Side

WHAT WOMAN, above all others, would you like to be stranded with on a desert island? This is an ancient question but the young gentlemen of the colleges are still taking votes on it. At the University of Hawaii, the majority picked Hedy La Marr. Sounds like snap judgment to me. As I said before the best desert island choice in Hollywood is Marlene Dietrich because she can cook. It might be interesting to contemplate the state of affairs if certain pairs of celebrities, through no choice or fault of their own, found themselves stranded on a desert island. Zaz, Pitts and George Bernard Shaw, for instance. Or Professor Einstein and Ethel Merman. Or Tony Galento and Frances Perkins.

SPEAKING of the difference a change of name makes, take Adolf Hitler, whose name first was Adolf Schicklgruber. Would Der Fuehrer have won power if his followers had to yell: "Heil! Schicklgruber!"? . . . When are auto manufacturers going to put the engine in the rear of the car and give the driver a clear view of the road ahead? . . . The toothpick is not in favor with the etiquette experts but dentists say it is a very good thing to use. However, only people of courage now use toothpicks. . . . According to the Texas law a woman doesn't know her own mind until she is more than 25.

all his. Here's an excerpt from a famous love-letter: "I will say that if it be love to think of you sleeping and waking, to discourse of nothing with pleasure but what concerns you, to wish myself every hour with you, and to pray for you with as much devotion as for my own soul; then it may be certainly said I am in love." This letter was written by the Countess of Leicester to her husband after 25 years of marriage.

A GERMAN SOLDIER is encouraged to be the father of at least one son. So in event of said soldier being killed there will be a male Nazi to replace him in the population figures. . . . Dr. Donald A. Laird says: "A woman's heart does more more than a man's."

The good doctor is speaking purely from a physical standpoint. He says a female's heart beats several times more a minute than a man's. He also says trim ankles are a sign of a good heart. What a good heart Claudette Colbert must have! . . . There are more than 700,000 words in the English language. Shakespeare needed a vocabulary of only 1500 words. I claim a very good newspaper could be published with the use of a vocabulary of 850 words. Want to know how to develop a simple style of writing? Take an 850-word vocabulary and write letters and articles using only in the words in that vocabulary.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Sept. 13—It seems that I have to read the papers in order to find out about my shortcomings! I must say, many as they are, novel ones creep up on me all the time.

Wednesday I found a little item announcing that in Cincinnati, Ohio, at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing, a porter testified that I had paid him fifty cents for a seventy cent service and that he had not told me of my mistake.

What grieves me, is that he did not tell me, for I have always doubted whether the new rule of ten cents a bag, gave the porters sufficient pay. Therefore I thought that I had always paid not only my ten cents a bag, but a tip in addition. To find myself twenty cents shy on the actual amount due, is really a shock.

However, if it helped the porters to change this rule, which I feel quite sure is not giving them enough weekly income, perhaps it will not do me any harm.

I HAD a letter Wednesday from a gentleman who says he reads my column in two different papers, and he found something which he considered vital to the meaning of the column left out from one of them.

I am flattered that anyone bothers to read what I have to say in two papers, but I am also rather interested for, of course, while no paper can add to what I have written, any paper, because of limitation of space, can take out sentences. This does inevitably change the meaning somewhat.

I traveled down to New York City and back on the train Wednesday and had an interesting conversation on the way down with one of my Poughkeepsie neighbors, who is interested in laboratories and research work for the prevention of contagious diseases.

She is convinced that we should force every mother to have her child inoculated against diphtheria before it is a year old. She told me that every death from diphtheria was equivalent to murder.

I think it is so well known today that it is a protection for a child to be given diphtheria antitoxin, that there is really comparatively little necessity for a drive to educate people in this particular field.

If, however, statistics show that many people, especially children, are dying from diphtheria, I agree with my day of the train that we should all do what we can to prevent it.

Yesterday was a glorious day and, after a grand ride and plenty of exercise, I even had a swim, though I must confess that the water is getting very cold.

Some friends came to lunch to discuss some difficulties about refugee children in unoccupied France, and now we are about to start to attend the Democratic Women's tea given by Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr.

DANCED TO ECHO,
LYMAN SAYS

By Leonard Lyons

Abe Lyman

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—Abe Lyman was reminiscing with some other bandleaders, about the large places in which their orchestras had played, and the number of customers they had attracted there . . . "The largest place I ever played in was a big armory—where I drew the lowest gross of my career," Lyman confessed . . . "Just how large was it?" Abe was asked . . . "This'll give you an idea," he replied. "The place was so big and empty that, five minutes after our band packed up and went home, some couples were still dancing—to our echo."

PRAYER: Kay Francis told us this story—of Richard Nichols, the six-year-old boy who is appearing in her new film, "Little Men." Nichols' last movie appearance was in "All This, and Heaven Too," and the youngster now is extremely movie-conscious. Kay heard him say his prayers, before going to bed. "God bless Mommy and Daddy and all our family and the Lone Ranger—Cut."

PUNCTUALITY: James Hilton, British novelist, dined last Saturday at the home of Sam and Bella Spewack . . . When the playwrights phoned Hilton to invite him to dinner, he accepted the invitation and asked: "What time shall I come?" . . . "Oh, come any time," Bella answered . . . "All right, then," said Hilton. "I'll come any time" . . . "But remember, James," Bella warned, "come any time—but sharp."

ENTERPRISE: The famous round-table at the Algonquin will be revived with a new set of notables replacing the ones who used to meet there regularly. Frequenting at these weekly functions will be Eleanor Roosevelt. Her first guests, today, include Harvey Allen, Maxwell Anderson, Helen Hayes and Katharine Hepburn.

EVIDENCE: Pittsburgh Phil, now being tried for a homicide, will continue to plead that he is insane and therefore should escape being sentenced to electrocution . . . To corroborate this claim, Phil's lawyers will offer evidence of a serious fight he provoked in Miami last year—a fight concerning the moving of his bed there.

TEST: A British lecturer toured this country recently, and then went to Washington to confer with some of the legislators. The lecturer then met Noel Coward and reported his experiences. "My knowledge of America now is first-hand," he said. "I've spoken to them all, and know exactly how Americans think and feel" . . . "When you left the Capitol, after seeing Garner, how did you make your farewell?" asked Coward . . . "I said, 'Good-by, Mr. Garner,' and he said good-by too, and addressed me respectfully as 'Mister'" . . . "Then your tour was wasted," Coward told him. "If, after the first hour, you couldn't call him Jack, and he couldn't call you Bill—then you don't really know Americans."

LUXURY: John Steinbeck is devoting all his time now to lessons in aviation. This, he believes, is the only practical way of preparing for the immediate future—flying, because the fate of much of the world now depends upon aviators.

GREETING: When Ernest Hemingway came to the Stork Club, he saw Dorothy Parker—whom he hadn't seen in almost two years. He walked up behind her, whacked her lustily on the shoulder and said: "Hello, Dottie, what's new?" . . . Dorothy turned, to see the imprint on her shoulder grow red, then blue and almost permanent. "What's new?" she repeated. "Only your autograph."

MARRIAGE: Bennett Cerf, who will be married next week, received a phone call from Carl Van Vechten, asking where the wedding ceremony will be held . . . "Frankly," said Cerf, "we haven't decided as yet" . . . "I guess any place is all right, for a wedding," Van Vechten advised, "but don't get married at the Algonquin" . . . "Don't like the Algonquin?" asked Cerf . . . "If you get married there," Van Vechten warned, "they're liable to throw Elmer Rice at you."

HELEN HAYES

YOU MEET THE NICEST PEOPLE among magicians . . . They're all boosters—for one another . . . Occasionally, an unusual flareup of temperament, or of jealousy, disturbs the ranks of the magi and the recent mild protest by Gulli Gulli, at the Mayfair, against the alleged lifting by Dr. Giovanni of the "ring on a stick" trick was one . . . These exceptions are so infrequent as to prove the rule that the hocus-pocus boys are living examples of Equity's famous slogan: "All for one—one for all!"

NIGHT CLUBS LIKE TO BOOK a first rate magician . . . Before his engagement is finished, the place will have enjoyed the patronage of every magician with the price of a dinner within traveling distance . . . This patronage is "velvet" as magicians are not habitual ringers and visit the gay spots only (as a rule) when one of their number is working.

A LETTER AT HAND from Elwin T. Shaw, who works under the professional name "Le Conjuror," and resides in Everett, demonstrates the interest the magicians have in the whole fraternity . . . In its closing paragraph, moreover, the feeling of fellowship which prevails in the magic ranks, is indicated clearly.

"I READ WITH INTEREST what you wrote regarding Gulli Gulli and Dr. Giovanni," writes "Le Conjuror" . . . "Re the 'ring on the stick' trick that the marvellous Gulli Gulli claims the good doctor stole from him . . . Are you sure that you have not misunderstood the situation? (Answer: No.) . . . 'The ring on the stick' trick is one of the oldest in magic, and is considered by most magicians to be one of the classics."

"ABOUT FIVE YEARS AGO Jean Huggard wrote a book 'Closeup Magic' which held a routine for this trick, and it states that Dr. Giovanni used the routine to good results . . . The late Nate Leipsic was very proud because he exchanged the secret for his 'ring on the stick' trick with Ten Ichl for Ichl's famous 'thumbable trick' . . . The ring trick is a great favorite with Hindu magicians."

"COUNT VON LUCKNER TELLS in his book of learning the trick while visiting India . . . I saw the Count perform this trick in New York at a magic show a few years ago . . . As for 'Gulli Gulli'—did you know that his name is the Egyptian's patter line corresponding to what we American magi might call 'hocus pocus'?—having imitators, the enclosed advertisement clipped from a recent magic magazine shows how many Giovanni will have."

(NOTE: THE AD SHOWS A gentleman stooge being stripped of suspenders, wrist-watch, wallet and fountain-pen by another gent who advertises that he can teach aspiring "amateur pickpockets" how to do the stripping.) A contest between Gulli Gulli and Giovanni would be very interesting, but my money would ride with Giovanni.

AND NOW COMES THE UNUSUAL ending of "Le Conjuror's" note . . . "With best regards," he closes, "and with thanks for the plugs you have given Gulli Gulli and Dr. Giovanni and others of our profession, I am etc." . . . Can you imagine a motion picture leading man writing his thanks for such boosts as may have been given his rivals? . . . Or a Broadway comedian? Or Joan Bennett indulging her thanks for a bit of praise about Hedy Lamarr?

BETTE DAVIS' "LITTLE FOXES" DELAYED
Tallulah Bankhead to Continue Stage Tour

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Bette Davis will not need to leave the lovely hills of New Hampshire (if she's still there) in order to hasten to Hollywood to make "The Little Foxes" . . . Sam Goldwyn bought the rights to the play with the condition that Tallulah Bankhead could complete her tour of the country . . . Miss Bankhead enjoyed playing "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" in the stage hat theaters, but she intends to cover a few thousand miles of territory in "The Little Foxes," and that would require until June, 1941.

PARAMOUNT BOOSTS
PRESTON STURGES

By Louella O. Parsons

Preston Sturges

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13—Just to give you a rough idea of how proud Paramount is of Preston Sturges, the invitations to his "Christmas in July" preview tonight bill him as Preston ("The Great McGinty") Sturges. What a riot "McGinty" has been all over the country. Even the stout New York critics let down their back hair to rave, and just to prove that McGinty Sturges is going to get the best seats Paramount can angle for him, none other than Henry Fonda has been borrowed from 20th Century-Fox for the male lead in his next.

"The Lady Eve." The girl in the case is Paulette Goddard who was to New York first for the opening of "The Great Dictator" which will be sometime within the next two weeks. It will be interesting to see if Writer-Director Sturges turns out as good a picture with names in his cast as he did with "McGinty," the starless hit. He certainly put Henry Fonda in the front row so much so that I heard two producers wager Donkey would not star before 1941.

JOAN FONTAINE has walked out of "Back Street" because she felt she did not want to be the type of woman in Fannie Hurst's novel. Joan is now in New York and Universal is without a leading lady for their most valuable property, the picture which brought fame to Irene Dunne. It's never right to take sides, and I suppose each has his own argument, but David Selznick, who brought fame to Joan in "Rebecca," feels that she should trust his judgment enough to make his picture which will save the direction of Robert Stevenson. At Universal today they said they had not been notified that Joan had ripped out of the picture and they still have a contract with her and will hold her to it. So it looks to me like fireworks unless she is persuaded by David, who is also in the East, to return to the east.

LITTLE MARIA SEIFER, Marlene Dietrich's daughter, came over to Sylvia Fairbanks' war relief exhibition at the Beverly Hills Hotel and changed the dress on the figure representing her mother. "I don't like that dress for my mother and I don't like her hat. Also, she isn't standing correctly." So Maria dressed the Marlene Dietrich figure, putting a cigarette holder in her hand. I stopped again to chat with Sylvia. Everybody drops in for tea to take a look at the movie figures. The likeness of Hedy Lamarr and Norma Shearer are extraordinary. Greta Garbo, Marion Davies, Vivien Leigh, Mary Pickford, Joan and Constance Bennett, Bette Davis, Meile Oberon are all there wearing the clothes they wore from some special production.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Lucille Fairbanks and Owen Crump have set Oct. 12 as their wedding day; Deanna Durbin and Vaughn Pearl will wed before 1941, and that comes from an authentic source; Peter Arno and Tanya Wildin, New York model, doing the Hollywood night spots; Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan have completed the furnishings of their nursery and are now waiting for January when the stock will deliver the Reagan heir.

PAT O'BRIEN is taking his little daughter to South Bend for the "Rocky" opening; Francon Tane arrived by plane and checked in at Universal; Prudence Penny, our famous food expert on the Los Angeles Examiner, will play herself in the next "Dr. Christian" picture; Bruce Cabot and Georgia Carroll, a New York model, are keeping the telephone busy.

BING CROSBY has bought a race horse and named it "Madame La Zonga" after Jimmie Monaca's song; the Nat Devereuxes have adopted a baby. The Mark Hellingers hosted a party there; Robert Light and his bride, the former Doris Donaldson, are not seeing eye to eye these days.

WILLIAM KEIGHLEY, well known director, has enrolled for the Spanish course at U.S.C. He and Genevieve Tobin go to South America in a few months and he wants to know the language.

Dever and Kelly Trade Punches

With the primaries only four days away, Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever and former Lieut. Gov. Francis E. Kelly today renewed tit-for-tat verbal attacks.

Kelly charged his opponent was attempting to take credit for work on the Col. Green estate tax case which actually belongs to Henry Long, state commissioner of taxation.

"Mr. Long made several trips to Texas, Florida, and New York, investigating records, assembling data and procuring the necessary statistics and information which secured for Massachusetts the sum of $5,000,000 from the Col. Green estate," Kelly stated.

"In my speeches in Knights of Columbus Hall, Somerville, and the High School, Malden, and over the radio, tonight, I will tell the people something of the activities of Mr. Long, who was responsible for obtaining $5,000,000 revenue for the State of Massachusetts, and whose credit Paul A. Dever now seeks to appropriate."

DEVER'S CHARGES

Dever told an organization meeting at Hotel Bancroft, Worcester, that his opponent is spending at the rate of $1000 a day alone on radio broadcasts to defeat him.

Dever said the extravagant manner in which money is being spent suggests that the practical financial backers of his opponent, former Lieut. Gov. Francis E. Kelly, do not expect him to win the election, but to be defeated by Gov. Saltonstall, if nominated.

PLEDGES FLAT RATE

If elected, he will work for flat-rate compulsory insurance, Robert G. Connolly, Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives, Ward 19, told a large house party at the residence of Thomas McCormack, Orchard Park, Jamaica.

City Councilor Maurice H. Sullivan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Register of Deeds in Suffolk County, announced he had received endorsements from many prominent persons.

Among them, he stated, were President William J. Gavin, president of Boston City Council, and a majority of the Democratic membership of the Council.

DAD FOLLOWS SON IN SUICIDE

THOMASTON, Ct., Sept. 13—(INS)—The father of a youth who committed suicide last year after shooting his sweetheart, Theodore Swiston, 39, committed suicide by hanging himself in his bedroom, according to Medical Examiner Winfield Wight.

Mrs. Swiston found the body suspended by a belt from the top of the bed, police said.

Swiston had been despondent lately over the death of his son, Alex, last October. The son committed suicide by inhaling carbon monoxide gas in his automobile after killing his sweetheart, Dorothy Hapke, 15, of Waterbury, during a lovers' quarrel in Hartwinton.

LATE BERRIES IN MARKET; MEAT PRICES STILL HIGH

Freight trains today brought to Faneuil Hall market stalls a belated taste treat—strawberries, raspberries and plums—all quickly hailed by New Englanders who never tire of the luscious fruit.

The strawberries and raspberries come from California and retail at 25 cents a pint. The plums are small Damsons from New York and sell at 75 cents for a six pound basket.

Although meat prices remained at the high level they reached several weeks ago, lamb took a slight drop this week-end selling at 32 cents a lb., three cents lower than last week. Beef legs and legs in loin are 32 a lb., while forequarters are 34 a lb., two cents lower than the previous week.

Juicy McIntosh apples are selling at 50 a dozen; while the cooking variety are 7 a lb. Oranges are 40 a dozen; pears, 45 a dozen; peaches 25-35 a dozen; grapes, 15 a lb.; blueberries, 30 a qt.; regular plums, 30 a dozen; canteloupes, 15 each; honeydews, 40 each; pineapples 35 each; bananas, 30 a dozen; limes, 25 a dozen.

CORN KEPT OUT

The new corn introduced last week wrapped in parchment paper and cooked with the paper on is no longer on sale here. Marketmen said the product, originally from New York, is selling much higher there than it did here and that it is being kept in that state.

Vegetable prices are about the same. Summer squash is 8c a lb.; pumpkins, 15c a lb.; celery, 10c a bunch; cucumbers, 8c each; radishes, 5c a bunch; tomatoes, 10c a lb.; mushrooms, 20c a lb.; butter, shell and lima beans, 15c a lb.; string beans, 12c a lb.; lettuce, 8c a head; peas, 12c a head; carrots, 10c a bunch; beans, 10c a bunch; sweet potatoes, 8c a lb.; Swiss chard, 7c a peck; Chinese cabbage, 8c a lb.; spinach, 25c a peck; potatoes, 30c a peck; onions, 25c for a 10 lb. bag; new potatoes, 30c a lb.; egg plant, 15c a lb.; squash, 4c a lb.

PRICES HIGH

Exclusive of lamb, however, meat prices remained high. Ham-bone starts at 25 a lb.; smoked tongues are 25 a lb.; sirloin flanks for pot roast, 30 a lb.; sweetbreads, 35 a lb.; porterhouse steak, 75 a lb.; sirloin tips, 60 a lb.; top of the round, 59 a lb.; bottom of the round, 49 a lb.; short cuts of rump, 80 a lb.; Delmonico steaks, 80 a lb.; pork, 35 a lb.; corned briskets, 35 a lb.; middle ribs of corned beef 25 a lb.; back of rump, 45 a lb.; lamb flanks for stewing, 6 a lb.; pork ends, 25 a lb.; pork chops, 50 a lb.; kidney chops, 60 a lb.; rib chops, 50 a lb. Turkey on the other hand is pretty good buy—the frozen variety selling at 28 a lb. The fresh killed turkeys are 35 a lb.; native broilers, 30-35 a lb.; chickens, 25-30; roasting chickens, 32-35 a lb.; fowl, 25-28; ducklings 22 a lb.; capon 38 a lb.; squab, 50-70 ea., depending on size; pigeons, 25-40 a lb.; guinea chickens, $2.10 a pair; chicken liver, 60 a lb.; chicken fat, 20 a lb.

Eggs which jumped a couple of cents last week remain the same this week. The large variety of eggs are selling at 40 a doz. The best tub butter is the same at 42 a lb.

one pound bricks, 37; the best pints, 45 a lb.; unsalted butter, 50 a lb.

LIVE LOBSTERS

Some new Rhode Island scallops made their appearance in the fish stalls selling at 70 a lb. Although the price may appear to be high, dealers say they are cheaper at this year's entrance price than they have been in years.

Selected larger live lobsters are

45 a lb.; medium live, 50; medium boiled, 50; chicken live, 38. Fresh opened clams are 60 a qt.; medium oysters, 40 a pt.; green shrimp, 40 a lb.; cured smoked fillets, 25 a lb.; sea scallops, 50 a lb.; large mackerel, 12 a lb.; Ipswich clams, 40 for a three qt. basket; eastern salmon, 40 a lb.; native swordfish, 40 a lb.; finnan haddock, 20 a lb.; smelt, new last week, 30 a lb.; butterfish, 15 a lb.; fillet of brockdock, 50 a lb.

FBI Hunts Sabotage In Jersey Explosion

The explosions were as frightful as any of the bombings in Europe's war zones and were preceded by a fire at the solvent recovery building in a tank containing 15,000 pounds of smokeless powder, being processed. Explosions spread the flame to adjoining structures.

About 75 men were working in the solvent building. Eye-witnesses said survivors staggered from the structure so dazed they did not know what had happened.

MEN BLOWN TO DEATH

New fires started as tanks of alcohol ignited. Throughout the night fire apparatus from miles around fought the flames. The plant employs about 1300 men, a peace-time peak due to the fact the company was engaged in filling $2,800,000 in Army orders. Four hundred of these men were in the grounds when the first blast blew dozens of them skyward.

Hospitals in neighboring towns were quickly filled with dead and dying men. Because of the confusion it required a considerable time to make identifications. Police were busy for hours re-routing traffic and keeping curious folk away.

Searchers were still digging in the ruins today for missing men.

Fires continued to smoulder and flare up.

Under motorcycle escort, William C. Hunt, director of operations, reached the scene from the company's main headquarters at Wilmington, Del., accompanied by Col. Henry Marsh, the company's smokeless powder expert.

FIRE'S A MYSTERY

Hunt, after investigation, said it was impossible to learn how the fire started, but no immediate evidence of sabotage had been found. He said the company was not making anything for shipment abroad, but was working for the government. He declined, however, to say whether any of the company's product was for the British.

Hunt said the company had been hiring new men because of government orders, and had investigated applicants without asking government co-operation. It was reported the company had received a list of 2000 men who attended Bund meetings.

Other officials declared it would be impossible to determine whether sabotage was responsible until an investigation by experts. They said the company had an elaborate guard and pass system.

Throughout the small community of Kenil, havoc was wrought by the blasts. Telephone wires were torn loose, windows broken, furniture smashed and electric service disrupted.

PRIEST AIDS THE DYING

Within a short time after the succession of blasts, firemen, police and scores of doctors and nurses rushed to the scene.

A priest entered the burning area and gave last rites to dying men. From time to time survivors emerged and described scenes of horror they had witnessed.

"I was working near a window with another man when we heard a faint sort of explosion," said Edward Powers, 28, employed in a room where nitro-glycerine was stored. "We stopped and looked out the window."

"Across the lot we could see the new solvent recovery building, finished just last week, going up in smoke. Flames were curling out of two windows."

"Then, suddenly, the whole thing seemed to fall apart and rise into the air. There was a terrific explosion. I don't know what happened next, except that I went through the wall. Men were running everywhere. Everybody was trying to find a place to hide from the danger."

Powers' clothing was in shreds. His head and body were covered with cuts and bruises.

partment of Reclamation banned all private motor vehicles and boats in the Parker dam area, and ordered fishermen and operators of motorboats to stay more than two miles from the giant $13,000,000 structure.

William A. Murphy of the Hercules Powder Co. said his concern did not fear damage to the hundreds of storage magazines in this area, but said the large Hercules plant near San Francisco would "undoubtedly" be on its guard.

The Atlas Powder Co. at Pittsburg, Cal., announced it had hired 10 more guards to protect its plant against possible sabotage.

7 Railroad Cars Burn in Blast

PINE CITY, Tenn., Sept. 13 (AP)

Four tank cars of gasoline, one of fuel oil and three cars of coal were derailed at the Northern Pacific Railway depot here today, touching off a fire and explosion that destroyed all but one car and the depot.

Fifteen persons were injured, none seriously, as the flaming gasoline and oil roared through the depot after it had been smashed when one of the cars rolled into it. The car of fuel oil exploded with a burst of flame that was seen for 50 miles. The coal, oil and three of the four cars of gasoline were destroyed and the depot was demolished.

2 Men on Roof Get Burglary Sentence

In Roxbury court today Judge Sherman found two men guilty of trespass, attempt to break and enter and damaging telephone wires.

Six-month suspended sentences were imposed on William Hopewell, 40, of Davis st., South End, and William Hobart, 34, of Robey at, Roxbury. Hopewell was also sentenced to three months on an old suspended sentence. They were arrested on the roof of a Roxbury warehouse.

Coast Plants Guard Against Sabotage

LOS ANGELES, Sept.—On the heels of the disastrous New Jersey munitions explosion, Pacific Coast explosive concerns and vital public utility plants have turned awitly to defend themselves against sabotage.

They had before them, grim in its new significance, testimony given the Dies committee one year ago by Neil Howard Ness of Los Angeles, who said he had heard members of the Los Angeles German-American Bund discuss plans to "paralyze the Pacific coast from Seattle to San Diego."

Drastic new restrictions were imposed at gigantic Parker dam on the Colorado river, where only last July fire of incendiary origin swept through the government warehouse, killing six men.

1 c. sifted all-purpose flour
2 tps. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tps. butter or margarine
1/2 c. granulated sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 sq. unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/2 c. milk
1/2 tsp. vanilla extract

METHOD OF PREPARATION
Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together. Cream butter or margarine; add sugar and cream well. Add eggs, one by one. Add melted chocolate, and blend. Add flour by sifter, one at a time, until mixture is stiff. Turn out on a floured surface and knead lightly. Roll into a rope, cut into 12 pieces, and place in a buttered or oiled tin. Bake in a hot oven (350° F.) for 12 minutes. Cool in tin. Remove and store in airtight container.

Plenty of Sea Thrills in Film

By DON WARD

Adventures on the high seas are always popular, mainly because they bring on fighting men and plenty of action, to keep the audience all pepped up; and this is what Paramount and Fenway customers get in "Captain Caution," the scrappy, romantic picture from the Hal Roach studio, shown yesterday at these twin houses for the first time in Boston.

Victor Mature, Bruce Cabot, Robert Barrat and Louise Platt take the leads in this rousing play laid in the old brave man-of-war era and all afloat with fistcliffs, cutthroat schemes, ship-to-ship battles and a two-flated conflict over the girl skipper of the good ship Olive Branch.

Mature and Cabot are the men who come to blows over the ship and the game girl who takes her father's place when he dies and Mature is the winnah. Barrat appears as the doughty but luckless Capt. Dorman and Miss Platt as the fair lady who looks on the heroic officer played by Mature as a sort of pussyfoot. She dubs him Capt. Caution. But he is honest and brave, just the same, and he is the man for her at the end.

Kenneth Roberts wrote the novel from which this screen play is taken. Grover Jones did the play and Richard Wallace directed. Comedy figures helping out from time to time are Leo Carrillo, Roscoe Ates and El Brendel. History students will appreciate the glimpse of the great Decatur, naval hero of the War of 1812 and champion of Americans against any odds.

Another attraction on the twin screens is "Earl of Puddingstone," comedy in the Higgins family series, with James, Lucille and Russell Gleason in the leading roles.

THIS WEEK a bridesmaid, next week a bride—reads the schedule of Edith DeCamp Moffat of Brookline...

She has gone to Suffield, Ct., to be a bridesmaid at the wedding tomorrow of Dora Redway and Charles Eliot Pierce of Milton and will return Sunday to complete the final preparations for her own wedding next Saturday...

Bride-to-be of Austie (Francis Austin Jr.) Harding, former Harvard hockey star, Edith is the daughter of the Donald Moffats of Brookline... Her sisters, Harriet and Pauline, and her cousins, Faith Moffat and Catherine Ross, will be among the attendants at the wedding, together with Anstiss Dana of Marblehead, Janet F. Brown of Chicago and Katharine Delano of Cedarhurst, L. I. ... Leonora and Lydia Moffat will be flower girls...

Austie's brother, Goodwin, will be best man, and the usher staff of 14 young men will include his three brothers-in-law, Dr. James Parker, Henry Russell, Jr., and Rodger Callaway...

The ceremony in Emmanuel Church will be followed by a reception at the Moffat home...

Dinner Honors Wedding Party

PARTYING BEFORE Dora Redway's wedding includes a dinner to be given this evening by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert James Redway, Jr., at their summer home in Suffield, Ct. ... The dinner will follow a five o'clock wedding rehearsal in St. Peter's Church, Springfield, just across the Massachusetts line from Suffield...

Tomorrow all concerned will gather for luncheon at bridesmaid Katherine O'Mally's Suffield home... Dora "came out" in Boston winter before last and belongs to the Junior League...

FAITH KILLIAM of Cambridge will start the ball rolling for the gay round of October debutante affairs with her debut luncheon at The Country Club on Oct. 3... Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Killiam, Faith is a graduate of Winsor School and plans to continue her studies at Radcliffe...

You Can Be Beautiful

Perfume in Solid Form

By ARLINE GOULD
IT CAN BE your introduction to new ways and means for acquiring glamour . . . because, though you may think you know a lot about fragrance tricks . . . here's one that is outstanding as well as new!

It's "see" perfume, in solid form . . . with three whole ounces of precious perfume in the making of the lipstick-shaped cylinder . . . costing, miraculously, about the price of a single dram of perfume, or 42¢.

Perfume in solid form, in what looks like a lipstick case, is smoothed into the skin wherever you wish to have it . . . and it's done with dispatch, without waste, and with a lightness that's truly amazing.

If your looking for a gift that has a certain amount of chic! . . . for someone who's hard to please . . . for someone who seems to know all about the exciting new things before anyone else has ever heard a peep about them . . . the "see" perfume is just right. And it is beautifully packaged as well. The lipstick-type cylinder which holds the solid perfume is a special, brilliantly-colored metal which won't scratch or tarnish. And it comes in a smart, satin-lined triangular box.

The solid perfume is so singularly formulated that in spite of its newness in mixing with you for hours, it is absolutely vivacious and pleasing, leaving no sign of its presence on the skin.

It would like to learn all about this "see" perfume, or solid perfume to be used like a lipstick, dabbing it on throat, shoulders, wrists . . . phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Quick-Frozen Foods Solve Menu Problems

By MARTHA LEE

When the homemaker comes home late from a club meeting or shopping trip, she needn't penalize the family with a slipshod dinner if she takes advantage of quick-frozen foods. They are all ready to cook or serve just as they come from their cartons, for all troublesome chores of preparation were done before they were quick-frozen.

Spinach and brocol cauliflower, peas, beans and all the rest of the vegetables arise in the kitchen ready to pop right into boiling water, without thawing. Fruits are ready to eat as soon as they are thawed, at room temperature or in the refrigerator.

AVAILABLE TO ALL

They are budget foods, too, for they are all quick-frozen at the height of their season when prices are best. Garden-fresh fruits and vegetables, sea-food treats that bring their oceaning to your table no matter how far you live from the surf, live give a wide choice to the menu maker. Their vitamin content makes that of the freshest foods in the market.

Here's a menu of quick-frozen foods that can be ready 20 minutes after the homemaker hangs up her hat: Broiled or fried haddock, green beans, fried sea and quick-frozen strawberries.

HADDOCK

Broiled: Use 1 package quick-frozen fillet of haddock (frozen or thawed). Spread fillet with softened butter and sparsely with salt, pepper and paprika. Bake on well-greased broiler and broil 15 to 25 minutes, turning to brown both sides. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Fried: Use 1 package quick-frozen fillet of haddock (frozen or thawed). Roll fillets in seasoned flour. Fry in small amount of cooking oil in heavy iron skillet 8 to 10 minutes, turning to brown both sides. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

FRIED CORN

Box (11 oz.) quick-frozen golden bantam corn (whole kernel)
1 cup sliced green peppers
1 tsp. minced onion
6 tbsp. butter
1/2 tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
1/4 cup sliced pimientos

Saute quick-frozen corn, green peppers, and onion in butter, covered, until corn is thawed and green peppers are tender, stirring frequently. Add salt, pepper, and pimientos, and cook until pimientos are thoroughly heated. Serve, garnished with sprigs of parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Note: To vary the recipe, saute 1 cup coarsely cut mushrooms with vegetables.

Here are recipes for other quick-frozen foods available at the grocers:

GREEN PEAS

Drop 1 box (12 oz.) quick frozen peas (frozen) into 1/2 cup briskly boiling salted water, bring again to a boil and boil 5 to 7 minutes or until just tender. Drain if necessary. Season with butter, salt, and pepper. Makes 4 servings. (Use any liquid left after cooking in sauces, soups, or for a hot vegetable dish.)

New 'Chiller'

Universal, birthplace of the "shiver-and-shake" dramas, now comes through with "The Mummy's Hand," co-starring Dick Foran and Peggy Moran, which opens a week's engagement on Trans-Lux screen today.

This greatest "chiller," doubtless inspired by the stories of the Tutankhamen curse of some years back, traces the weird adventures of an expeditionary group searching for the tomb of an Egyptian princess.

On the same bill is "The Leather Pushers," co-starring Richard Arlen and Andy Devine with Astrid Aliwyn.

Dance of Doves Hit at Boston

By DON WARD

Most spectacular dancer of the day is Rosita Royce, headliner in the new RKO Boston stage show, and what a sensation there would be if all doves flew away at the same time and left the alluring dancing dame with hardly more than Lady Golliva words as she rode a dove.

Main act, on that fabulous white horse!

As a matter of fact one of the doves did leave his perch during La Royce's novel act, which has been featured all over the country recently at the New York World's Fair—since all the bubbles burst and the dancer had to look for some other picturesque covering. But the lone bird was not seriously missed. No one even screamed. Then for variety's headline act of the real old Keith order you have the incomparable Al Bertone, youngest and cleverest of all the mimics, whose imitation of Charles Laughton is just as astonishing as ever and who has added a copy of one of the most popular of the new screen stars, James Cagney, to the splendid Bertone repertoire since he was last here.

Tracy and Lyness lead off the KGB stage revue with their original eccentric dance act, one of the best of its kind today; the Four Marshalls follow with their budget of songs and new and old; and after the Royce and Bertone triumphs come Milton Douglas, with his inimitable comedy cracks and his fifty partner, Priscilla, and the Four Vernons, who show how attractive adagio dances can be.

Screen features are "Laughing at Danger," in which young Frank Darro puts it over the foul plotters, and "Stage to China," which is a good, rousing Western.

Real Action Film For Everybody

By PEGGY DOYLE

Loew's opened its fall season with a bang-up picture in "Boom Town," Metro's five-alarm hit with Gable, Tracy, Colbert, Lamarr and Morgan luring a record-breaking audience into the Orpheum for yesterday's opening show.

Don't let the $2,000,000 bracketing scare you off. "Boom Town" is as intimate as a family fight and a lot more appealing. The plot stems from the partnership of Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy, a pair of scrappy wildcat oil drillers, who know all the answers and who give out with a few eyebrow-lifts before the finale. They are equally swell and doubtless will rack the State and Orpheum at every show. During the eight minutes of the picture's unveiling they get rich and poor again a couple of times and in the wink of an eye. In the beginning, Tracy has a wildcat lease and Gable a short bankroll but endless ability to promote the "firm." And so they hi-jack $400 worth of drilling equipment. They are briefly dejected when they find not oil but salt water; but the second gusher is oil.

Lovely Claudette Colbert comes out of the East to make it a triangle. Tracy loves her but Gable gets her. Gable, years later in New York and infinitely satisfied, also gets devastating Hedy Lamarr, (whose initial appearance in the picture, incidentally, elicited a spontaneous burst of applause).

Even with a million-dollar bankroll and a wedding ring thrown in, Hedy doesn't want Tracy, but—no woman—the audience is for him 100 per cent. As a matter of record, it's a tie between him and Gable as to audience reaction, but that goes for the male as well as the distaff side of the house.

"Boom Town," if this hasn't been made clear before, is everybody's picture. It's got everything including a fight between Gable and Tracy that has the earmarks—hold the cauliflower—of a championship bout.

On the same bill is "The Lady in Question," cosidering still another two-fisted Hollywood heartbreaker Brian Aherne, with handsome Rita Hayworth.

Broadcast From Fenway

The second in the series of Loew's new fun-quizz "classics," "Crackpot College," will be broadcast direct from the Fenway stage tomorrow at 5:30 p. m.

Presented in addition to the regular double-feature screen bill, the fun-quizz show features a cast of New England radio favorites.

The audience participants in the presentation of the broadcast, and it is possible for a patron to win as much as 32 silver dollars.

Young Stars on So. Station Screen

Many of Hollywood's most talented young stars are featured in "Cinderella's Feller," modern version of the old story, which is now showing on the South Station Theater screen. On the same bill are "Fishing in Hawaii," sport and travel film; a Donald Duck cartoon, John Nesbitt's "Tiffles of Importance" and the latest news-reels.

Tops in Screen Comedies

By PEGGY DOYLE

Don't laugh so hard you miss so much as a syllable of Robert Benchley's sleep mutterings in "Hired Wife," Universal's comedy co-starring Brian Aherne and Rosalind Russell at the Keith Memorial. His eccentric-brain lawyer is Benchley at his best, which is our excuse for neglecting to mention in the lead the excellent performances turned in by Aherne, Miss Russell and the splendidly beautiful Virginia Bruce.

Miss Russell plays the thoroughly efficient secretary who's in love with the boss, Aherne, cement tycoon and knight errant who thinks in slow motion. Comes spicing and the beautiful Bruce is the light of his wandering eyes.

Comes the time when the elusive Aherne would say fare thee well and the persistent Virginia won't leggo. And so the desperate man will marry anybody in order to tie up his business and leave change in his wife's name.

The doting Miss Russell can hardly wait to be the victim. In fact, she has the clue to do step herself from doing a marathon to the justice of the price.

Love has a most tempestuous time of it from then on until John Carroll's Latin lava waves, and wins the nervous Miss Bruce. Rosalind Russell wraps her red up and runs away with the acting honors—that is she does except when Benchley, Lupino and Turner are concerned to give her a run for her money.

William A. Sater, who also produced the picture, has chosen a slick job of directing and Richard Connell and Gladys Lehman are to be congratulated on a smartly written script.

The second feature, "Men Against the Sky," stars Richard Dix with Wendy Barrie and Edmund Lowe.

Gala Midnight Show at Howard

"Ridin' High," the George Sorenson-starring, burlesque revue, will be given a special performance at tonight's midnight show at the Old Howard, starting at 11:30. Featured in the cast are Max Fuhman, Alvin Matton, Harry J. Conley, Cleo Florenz, Murray Hiscoc, Helen Colby, Jimmie Cavanaugh, the Vanderbilt Brothers and many others.

BLONDIE

YOU would never suspect, watching Nellie Dwight and Myra Noble together, that there was a feud between them. They were both moving rapidly into middle age, both pushing 50 and it was hard to believe that the feud had started between them because of the usual thing, a man.

You wouldn't believe it because neither approached heavily in any way, nor ever had. They were both plain, substantial women.

Nellie had a little the better of it in appearance. She was about five foot, two and heavy. But she still was shapely despite her swordpoint and she carried herself like a soldier. She had nice brown eyes and a little turned-up nose and a smiling mouth. Her hair, now turning gray, had been a nice shade of black. She was as pleasant as her mouth promised, almost as smooth as silk. Her appearance and manner helped her in her business. She was one of New York's more successful modistes.

Myra was taller than Nellie. She was still a blonde with the aid of gallons of rinse. Her eyes were blue and ill-tempered. Her nose was long. Her mouth was petulant and her voice shrill. She was fat and looked it, having a short waist which drew all her extra weight up around her stomach and chest. The girls who worked for her, all shapely and ranging from a pretty to beautiful, could attest that her disposition was difficult. There was a lot of them. Myra ran a chain of "Myra Noble" restaurants in the city.

Nellie and Myra moved in a group of women who were as much like them as one pea in a pod is like another. They were all successful, all slightly hysterical, all amazingly bitter and all avid for something they could not put their fingers on. Some of them were spinsters, others were widows, still others were divorced. The rest were still married to weak and unsuccessful men who did not matter.

FOLITE HYPOCHRISIES
There was a great deal of false camaraderie in these meetings. They effected the rough joviality of men. They played bridge together, went to the theater together, attended the more intellectual lectures together, got a little drunk and shriller together. And tore each other to pieces behind each other's backs.

Nellie and Myra were particularly sweet to each other. The other "girls" called them "Mike and Ike" because of their intimacy and because they had come to New York from the same small town, Rushville, in a Midwestern state. Myra held herself responsible for Nellie who, she was always saying, was not a good business woman because she was an artist. Nellie always smilingly agreed with her when she made the statement before one of Nellie's prospective customers.

A GLAMOUR MAN

They both were thrilled to pieces, but Nellie got the bigger thrill of the two because she spotted George and she liked his appearance and the way he walked. He was a sergeant and he was big and smiling and carefree. He happened to catch her eye and with his face as solemn as a judge's he winked his eye.

She remembered him then. Up to waittime, he had been hustling baggage down at the depot and he wasn't the man that an ambitious good-by to his carefree days. Myra, a farm girl herself, had a real gift for cooking. And she was ambitious. By prodding George and heckling him, she began to get such dishes before the patrons of The Gem that they began to swarm there.

George got a raise in his wages and shortly after, under Myra's prodding, went to the bank and borrowed some money with which he opened a restaurant of his own. It became the best restaurant in the state because Myra worked like a beaver behind the partition and over the stove.

HIDDEN HATE

It stayed that way for six years, then George died. Myra ran the place alone for a while and then hit out for New York. When she left Rushville she firmly believed that Nellie had forgiven her for taking George away from her. Nellie, she felt, was a good deal of a dunce, anyhow, or she wouldn't have let it happen.

When she left, Nellie was the last person in Rushville to kiss because he was a connoisseur, as it were, of women. He was always in the company of some beautiful or striking woman.

The acid that was in Nellie's heart started to work. She began to sincerely hope that Myra would fall so madly in love with this man that she would make a spectacle of herself. But for a while, she believed that was impossible.

Strangely, James Buchanan seemed to be falling in love with Myra. His visits became more and more frequent. He was at her apartment three or four nights a week. It must be, Nellie thought, "the dangerous age" with him because though he was with Myra almost constantly, he had never taken her out in public. But from Myra's stories, he was hopelessly hooked.

NELLIE'S SCHEME
Then, one day, Myra came to her with the glad news that "Jim" was going to take her to a first night.

Nellie's Hat By Charles McGuirk

The main reason why Myra pretended to hold herself responsible for Nellie was that she had preceded Nellie into New York by something like seven years. She had arrived as the wife of George Noble, a restaurant man who had begun his career as a short order cook in a small town and made a success because he developed a flair for the business of pleasing hungry customers. It was around George that the feud between Myra and Nellie had started and developed because Nellie was the first of the two to fall in love with him.

Myra did not fall for George until the affair between Nellie and him had grown almost into an engagement. People who had known them both all their lives aware that Myra would never have given two pins for George, if Nellie hadn't already loved him. Myra always coveted whatever Nellie had.

Both women often thought of George and the effect he had had upon them. Myra with a little mental quirk of satisfaction, Nellie with a little stab in the heart that came from the memory of an unrealized dream.

Life is strange. To Myra, George had been a sleeping alone and a disappointment. To Nellie, he had been, and still was, a chance for happiness which had been handed to her and then snatched away. Myra had been the snatcher and Nellie would never forgive her.

It all started with the sound of drums and bugles. It was after the war and the troops were coming home. Myra and Nellie, friends then, stood on the curb on Main st. and saw the boys marching proudly by. Nellie had a little millinery shop at the south end of Main st. not far from the tracks. Myra—though you'd never believe it to see her now—worked as a milliner would seek out for matrimony. But now he looked like a million dollars and Nellie's heart went out to him.

The next day George appeared in The Gem, looking for a job. It so happens that the cook in The Gem was in the midst of one of his occasional spasms of drunkenness and the boss was thoroughly disgusted with him. He fired him forthwith and put George in the kitchen.

This did not mean a thing at the time to Myra because she was "going with" Fred Hankel, a middle-aged farmer and widower. Fred's courtship was decorous, because he was no beauty, and practical because he knew what he wanted and wasn't wasting any time mooning around. He wanted a wife to run his farm and take care of his two motherless children. He had put the question to Myra and she was debating it. She paid no more attention to George than she had to the gin-soaked cook who had preceded him.

Then, one evening she dropped into Nellie's shop and found George there. He was leaning on the counter, talking easily to Nellie and Nellie was all flurried and red. So Myra knew she was in love with George and, straightway fell in love with him herself. She didn't say anything. She just played up to him from then on. Even to the day he died George never could figure out how he had been switched from Nellie to Myra. But switched he was and married, too. When he married Myra, he said her good-by. Myra told her she ought to come on to New York with her. But Nellie said she liked it in Rushville. She was now selling dresses as well as hats. She had a flare with the needle and the best people in the town were her customers. She didn't tell Myra that she hated her so much she wouldn't go any place with her or live in the same town if she could help it.

Well, Myra flourished in New York. She wrote Nellie frequently. Nellie made a lot of money in Rushville and, one day, decided to come to New York. She came. She struggled a while. She finally conquered. She had the knack of making a ten-dollar dress look like a Parisian creation.

Little by little, the distinction of her dresses and her reasonable price attracted the suburban trade. Soon, she could have put on airs if she had been built that way. But she wasn't. Her customers got to be her friends.

This went on for years and years and so did the "friendship" between her and Myra. Myra, now the head of her chain of restaurants, was immensely wealthy—and bored. She patronized Nellie in a thousand ways, but clung to her friendship. Nellie was worth quite a little herself, but she was not bored. She had too many friends. Then one day Myra came to Nellie and told her she was in love again. The man was James Buchanan, a wealthy retired bachelor. She knew, Myra told Nellie, that she didn't have a chance with James

It was a week away and Myra wanted the best-looking hat that Nellie could devise. "I want it to look so gorgeous on me," she explained, "that he will think I'm beautiful and propose to me." Nellie, her lips tight in a smile, promised her she would concoct a hat that would make Clark Gable fall for Myra.

She spent the whole week upon it. She used photographs of Myra and she worked out twenty different styles to fit her face. Some of them were almost as good as she wanted them to be but she discarded them because from some angles, they made Myra look preposterous. The one she finally made up was a cunning confection. To an average eye, it had all the merits of the latest Paris creation but on Myra it made her face look like a funny false face. Myra wore it to the rendezvous, all unsuspecting. As she got out of a taxi in front of the theater, the first night crowd began to chuckle then to laugh, then to roar. James Buchanan took one horrified look at her and then pushed her into another cab and drove her away, mumbling incoherent excuses. He dropped her at her apartment and she never saw him again.

To this day, she doesn't know what happened but sometimes, she suspects that the cause of it all was the hat Nellie made for her.

Brown Needs 'Iron Men' To Meet 'Suicide' Slate

Pictorial Review of Brown Squad—Page 48

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 13—It may be that the modern replicas of Brown's old football heroes, like Sprackling, Mishel, the Cornsweets, Spellman and Pollard, are being weaned away to more lucrative college opportunities. They are not matriculating at Brown these sun-sleepy afternoons—not, at least, by herds or hordes. For the varsity which rehearsed its mazurkas, schottisches and fandangos at Aldrich Field was a little on the up-side of Standard American youth without any Bulgarian mountain types. There were no sandpaper chins or hairy ears, no Neanderthal dawn-men characters, no zoological throw-backs. Just casual collegiate manhood who come for culture. Has the Carnegie Foundation learned about that?

Yet don't get the inkling I am erasing the capital B from the Bruins and leaving the rest. Brown rates itself not much less than evens for the toughest, rock-ribbed schedule that it has been Tuss McLaughry's pleasure to face since his old, undefeated "Iron Men." (Why must one always hark back to that legendary team—like the 1914 Braves, the era of Jack Dempsey, Man o' War and Bobby Jones? Ah me!)

Well, Tuss (one is one of my favorite coaches) springs from the same (ancient) stock as Andy Kerr, Bill McKechnie and... ahem!... Gilmore Dobie, and has an unexpected talent for heating up average lads to deeds of derring-do (Who threw that?) Yes, Tuss has hit the Big Casino several times in his 14 years at Brown. (Remember how he manipulated a set of All-Star kids into a victory over the... ahem!... Chicago Bears last week? And don't you think that wasn't sumptin'?)

Well, Tuss (one is one of my favorite coaches) springs from the same (ancient) stock as Andy Kerr, Bill McKechnie and... ahem!... Gilmore Dobie, and has an unexpected talent for heating up average lads to deeds of derring-do (Who threw that?) Yes, Tuss has hit the Big Casino several times in his 14 years at Brown. (Remember how he manipulated a set of All-Star kids into a victory over the... ahem!... Chicago Bears last week? And don't you think that wasn't sumptin'?)

IN JOE NUTTER'S DEPARTMENT, where he makes matters painless for the press, are finds such entertaining statistics as, "Ducking—gained 100 net yards in 45 tries... Eltony Stepczyk—shoulder operation last winter cured an old injury. Averaged 5.6 yards in 50 tries last year... Dick High—team's leading ground-gainer, averaged 28.6 yards per run-back of punts. Team's best power runner, etc." Such-like stuff!

Interesting thing about High, a 19-year-old, 200-pound hunk of masculinity. Last summer, with a hereditary, restless itch (he's the offspring of Jake High, old Bruin star and one-time coach at Tulane) he hitch-hiked to Valley, Wyoming and became a working "dude" on a cow-ranch. Tall, dark and dynamic (pardon my terminology!) sometimes mature center. Its full measure of masculine wealth on one boy. It blossoms him with size and symmetry, mental balance and social grace, moral magnitude (Gawd!) and emotional poise. And the result is a Dick High. So the kid is going to be the focus of many a Brown trickery—Tuss is tailor-making some plays for him.

Then there's O'Leary of the Maynard, Mass., Oil-rigs, who brought a charming wife back to college after a year's absence; a good pass defender, hard runner and kicker. He's apt to be the fourth regular. In reserve is Bill Sheehan who Nutter picturesquely says, "started grass fires from his leg friction toward the end of last year," and Pete Laudat and a quartet of sophomores named Frank Boyan, Hank Filote, Dick Meader and Jim Torcom. It's a little more of quantity and quality than Brown has mustered in many years, lacking only a good forward passer.

That's the brightest side of the portrait. The line is something

70 REPORT AT HARVARD FOR FIRST GRID WORKOUT

Seventy football candidates reported to Dick Harlow this morning as the Crimsonist little time in starting preparations for their most difficult schedule in history.

After three days, each nation's enthusiastic squad had their first session of the season before a battery of crimson men and then the hard work began.

Harlow and his aids have hopes that the coming season will show that the Crimson are once more a threat on the Stadium turf. Last season the team clicked once—they ran rough shod over a poor Army team, but the rest of the season they were only an excuse for a grid machine.

LOVETT LOST TO TEAM

Sophomore piters cost the Crimson the Yale game, but the experience of last year should be turned into dividends this season. Harlow will be able to open the season with an outfit which is composed of veterans, but he lacks a clunker runner which will handicap the Cartels.

Harlow will field a big veteran line with a powerful and snail. Greg Lovett is supposed to find ways, and run with the Cartels in the game. With the Cartels in the game, J. J. Kaufman, Brown's star, will probably be one of the leading candidates for the title of the year.

Many times last year the Cartels' running attack was hindered because they could not find the place to put the ball.

McKOL LOOKS AS PASSER

Gloucester High Review Tomorrow

The Gloucester High football review by Sam Brogan, which was scheduled to appear in these pages today, must be put over until tomorrow. Pictures of the players, and a full squad report will appear on these pages tomorrow.

The Lynn Classical review, scheduled for tomorrow, will be run Monday.

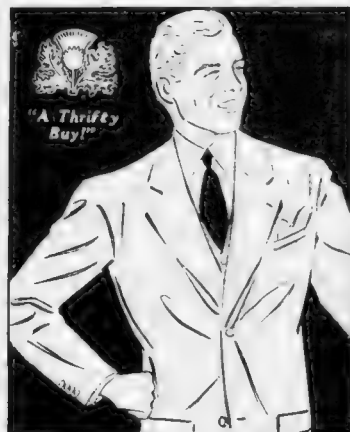

Tom McNair, former Flushing, N. Y. star, looks like the best player. Sam Wood, Maccles, who personally coached the New Cuba last year, is a close second. Not top boy who should cause plenty of worry in the championship.

DOUBLE DRILLS

Many consider Harry Johnnies are the dark horse of the Ivy League because they appear to have the goods to knock off any of their rivals with the possible exception of the Michigan Wolverine and their best representative—Tom Harmon.

Harlow plans to hold double drills until Sept. 21, and much of the success or failure of the Harvard 1940 season will depend on how many of the unknown prove to be capable reserves for a good starting team.

else! Who are the ends? (Bill Bates, Joe Finkelstein, Tom Nash and John Progers entered the job-score, strife-torn business world last June). "You tell me!" suggested Tuss—not morbidly, you understand, but as a doctor might study an illness unknown to medical science. It's a tough pecan for end coach Earl Brown (Notre Dame) to crack—maybe Bob Priestley, a '39 afterthought; maybe John Marsolini (good pass snatcher . . . he gained 110 yards and scored three touchdowns on 7 passes last year). Then there's that euphonic combination of labial sounds, Wilson—from Williston, Williamstown (23; 5:11; 179) and Russ Hall (Soph; basketball numeral man; rauboned, hoy-headed). And perhaps Earl can scratch up something more from under the towels, extra hip pads and blankets on the bench. For Tuss'll need 'em, considering that his habitual, hardware style of play calls for rugged wings.

NO. 2 WEAKNESS comes at the guards. And there's at least one museum curiosity there—a 148-pound bundle of bone and gristle named Tom Lohr (stands only 5:5 and at first glance looks like a lad suitable for dandling on daddy's knee). But the boy is one of those pocket-edition tough guys of the Rabbit Maranville standard of three-ply muscle. So he's one guard. (Tuss, with a touch of awe in his voice, says he can't "mss"). He may not be the best in New England and may take a bit of brutalizing from the big-time beefy opponents, but he's best on Aldrich Field right now. Then there's Arnold Robert Eggett (5:11; 184) who has seen some action for two years, (mostly a worm's-eye view with the scrubs) and Phil Down (Captain of the '39 Frosh) and Walt Mullen, a reserve center last year. It looks a trifle foggy there.

Luckily the tackles and centers are seasoned, so that inexperience will be flanked by Umph! Amos Taylor and John Occhiello (they're roommates, and Amos shoved John out of his regular job last year) are No. 1. Then Arnold Suloway (a B-man but not by any means to be associated with H. O.—bum-joke!) They were alternating starters last year. Then comes Bill Crooker over the ball, a Malden junior who made the grade late last year and is a good diagnostician, Walt Mullen, if not shifted to guards, will spell Bill.

So that's the outlook for a ten-game, be-harnaced schedule which is sure to scuff the skins off a lot of kids. For, where last year Brown's big objective games were only four (Colgate, Holy Cross, Princeton, and Yale) this time there are seven (Colgate, Yale and Holy Cross again plus Harvard, Army, Dartmouth and Columbia). It's about the most soul-searching, bone-bending list of any major New England college and promises a busy autumn for Dr. Raymond Bugbee, '06.

WESLEYAN offers a kind of shoe-horn game on Sept. 28 to gentle Brown into its season, with those rough, impertinent, he-wolves from Little Rhody on Oct. 5—always a promissory case of apoplexy for Brown. So Dr. Bugbee is getting his stock of surgical tape, oils, unguents and therapeutic machinery ready for patching and repairs, trusting that the little gods of grid-mayhem will be generous.

In closing I would sum up the situation now going on behind the big, brick hangar in Providence as half-way betwixt a sensational success and an abject flop. For it's a season to test the Scotch ingenuity of McLaughry and Messers Denny Myers, George Allen and Earl Brown, who make up the football faculty—and a nice set of guys they!

Austen Lake's next football review, on Harvard, will appear in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

BEES PAY CARDINALS FOR OLD SORE

By BILL GRIMES

During their previous visit to our fair city about six weeks ago, the St. Louis Cardinals went out of their way to give the Bees a thorough going-over.

At that time, the Bees weren't going too hot. In fact, they were in the midst of a general slump. It was just prior to that now famous spurt, which made the Stengelmans the talk of the National League.

For an experienced club such as the Cardinals to put themselves out to make a show of a young and inexperienced aggregation such as the Bees, was wholly uncalled for.

BROKE CARDS' STREAK

The Bees took it without a murmur. But they didn't like it. Nor did they forget it. In fact, they've been gunning for the Cards ever since. They went into St. Louis a few weeks ago and knocked out the Cards, thereby breaking a nine-game winning streak.

But, still, they weren't satisfied. Yesterday, they squared accounts with the Cardinals.

For a couple of weeks, the Bees haven't been hitting for the size of their respective hats. But, just as soon as they saw the Cardinals, who on Wednesday had taken both ends of a twin bill from the Giants in New York, strut out on National League Field, the Bees saw red.

Manager Billy Southworth charged. Bob Bowman to start the opening game. Mr. Bowman was greeted as a long lost "cousin" by the Bees. And, therefore, he didn't remain long on the premises. To be exact, Mr. Bowman was out of the game before two innings had been completed. During his short tenure of office he was nicked for six hits and the score was 3 to 0 when he departed.

Then came Max Lanier who proved to be another "cousin." For during the third of an inning, that he was officially in action the Bees reached him for four hits and as many runs. And the score was 9 to 1 when he took over and Carl Doyle took over.

ACCOUNTS SQUARED

During the big second inning Manager Casey Stengel took advantage of at least two opportunities to show up the Cardinals. With nobody out, Ray Berres up, one run in and Eddie Miller on third and Buddy Hassett on first, Ole Cass flashed the squeeze sign. Berres laid down a perfect bunt, scoring Miller and advancing Hassett a sack. Then, after Jim Tobin had fanned and Hassett had stolen third, Ole Cass put the squeeze on again with Sibby Sisti up. Hassett scored easily and to make it perfect Sibby beat out the hit.

By that time, the Cardinals were as high in the air as the Bees were when they were on the receiving end of the "business" six weeks ago.

Due to the fact that the Bees had scored 17 runs and made 21 hits in the opener, the fans were a trifle sceptical over the outcome of the nightcap, particularly when Billy Southworth sent Mort Cooper, one of his ace hurlers, to the hilltop.

But the Bees were in a hitting mood, and Cooper was just another pitcher to them.

The Bees appeared to be satisfied with a 2 to 0 lead until the Cards tallied in the 7th. Then, they went to work on Mr. Cooper who had yielded nine hits but had allowed only two runs in seven rounds.

With the score 2 to 1, Gene Moore started off the 8th with his second hit of the game and raced all the way home when Eddie Miller clubbed a two bagger into the deep left field corner of the park. While trying to sacrifice Moore over to third, Hassett beat out a bunt, and Gene scored while Buddy went all the way to third on Cooper's bid heave to Mize. Then singles by Bill Posedel, Al Glosop and Johnny Cooney accounted for two more runs and sewed up the old ball game.

During yesterday's double header, the Bees made 23 runs and connected with no less than 36 hits.

The Bees and the Cards play a single game this afternoon at National League Field and another tomorrow. Dick Erickson and Lon Warneke will be the mound artist this afternoon.

One Game Playoff In Case of A.L. Tie

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP)—The situation being what it is in the American League pennant race, some fans might wonder about the procedure followed in the event of a two-way championship tie.

Will Harridge, president of the league, said today the league's constitution provides that in such cases the teams must meet in a single game playoff, with selection of the site determined by lot.

There is no provision for a three-way tie. However, Harridge said that under the wording of the constitution two teams probably would be chosen by lot to meet in a single game with the winner playing the third club.

Harridge said he couldn't recall an instance in the league's history where the race wound up in a first place tie.

SOX FACE DROP TO FIFTH PLACE ON TODAY'S GAME

By JOE CASHMAN

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13—It could happen only on Friday the thirteenth.

Today found Secretary Phil Troy in Chicago to represent the Red Sox at a conference called by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis to decide on rules, regulations and dates for the 1940 World Series.

Today found the Red Sox in danger of falling into the second division, win, lose or draw.

Troy was wasting his time, and he knew it. He was in the Windy City because the commissioner so ordered. Landis, you see, issued the call for this "confab" a week ago, when the Hose appeared to be in the running.

Since that time our heroes have lost four out of five games to the three clubs above them in the standing, and their only thought at the moment is to stay in the first division.

When they dropped yesterday's opener of a three-game series with the second-place Indians, the Croninmen fell six games below the roof and found themselves sharing fourth place with the Chicago White Sox, who took a double-header from the A's.

REALIZE CHISON DANGER

This p. m. while the Fenway favorites were engaged in a second game with the Redskins, the Pale House were playing another double-header with the Blackmen.

That means our boys would be in fifth place by nightfall if they should lose and if the White Sox split, or if they should win and the White Sox win two.

So Manager Joe Cronin has wisely altered his plans. Instead of going all out against the Indians, he's aiming now to hold something in reserve for the three-game series with the White Sox in Chicago, starting Sunday.

Evidence of this was furnished today when the Skipper announced that he'd gamble on Mickey "Lefty"

Harris, just back from Scranton, in the final tilt here tomorrow.

He won't be taking much of a gamble, however. Looking at times like the best of the Sox young pitchers before he was farmed out in mid-season.

At that, though, it wasn't entirely the fault of the hitters that the Back Bay boys were scalped yesterday, 8 to 1.

HARDER TOO TOUGH

True, the Indians did score seven tallies in a big fourth frame against Fred Ostermiller and Emerson Dickman. But when they had scored the first of those they had all they wanted to win.

The ancient Mel Harder, pitching his best game of the season, limited the Hose to three hits, and allowed none of them to advance as far as third base until the ninth. It was Mel's fifth win over the Sox, which is as many as he's gained over the other six rivals put together.

Jim Bagby was the Boston hand selection for today's second game. Al "Lefty" Minar was the Indians choice.

The native portlander has been soft picking for the Sox as far this year, but Bagby has hardly been a puzzle to the Indians, dropping four verdicts in five starts against. Darkness was the most likely winner of the fray.

Bruins to Start Training Oct. 13

Following the board of governors meeting of the National Hockey League approving the 1940-41 schedule of 48 games and continuance of the same playoff system, Mgr. Arthur H. Ross of the Boston Bruins announced that the Bruins regulars would report at Hershey on Sunday, Oct. 13, for pre-season training.

Ross stated that he would be at Hershey with Coach Ralph Welland on Monday, Oct. 7, to have tryouts for 12 amateur players whom the Bruins have invited to work out at Hershey with a view to signing. The Bruins open their regular season Nov. 8 at Toronto with the Leafs. The Bruins manager is figuring on the same squad which closed out the 1940 season losing the National Hockey League Championship playoff round to the New York Rangers in six games. The opening game of the National Hockey League season in Boston will be played against the Chicago Blackhawks on Tuesday, Nov. 12.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY—But the going-over couldn't have been very light, judging by the twisted face of Ceferino Garcia (right) as he absorbs a left-hand shot thrown by Steve Belloise of New York in Garden last night... Garcia hit Belloise only a few times as latter won a 10-round decision. Speed-Ray's 100,000th-second wink catches this stand-out ring scene for you.

BELLOISE TO GET TITLE GO

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Steve Belloise, the kid who began his fighting at a family picnic and who does fancy needlework for fun, gets a crack at the world mid-weight championship on Nov. 1.

By outpointing the veteran ex-titholder, Ceferino Garcia, in 10 rounds before a crowd of 10,809 in Madison Square Garden last night, the Bronx youngster not only scored his 27th straight victory, but also was signed immediately by Promoter Mike Jacobs to tangle with Ken Overlin, the Virginia boxing "cute."

Overlin, who holds that portion of the title recognized in California and New York, was sitting at the ringside.

Neither Belloise nor the Filipino exploded any of the right-hand bombs for which they are famous, and most of the action was in close, with Referee George Walsh having a busy evening breaking clinches.

As a fight, there wasn't much to it, with the veteran Garcia apparently unable to do anything with Steve's snaky, unorthodox left hand.

In fact, for a while just before the fight, there almost was no fight at all. Garcia turned up at the Garden complaining to his manager that he wasn't well—that he was "feeling shaky."

At first he said he didn't want to go on with the fight. Then, when a State Athletic Commission physician examined him and pronounced him fit he said he'd "be O. K. and would fight."

Promoter Mike Jacobs issued a statement then that "it better be a real fight, or I'll give the customers their money back."

The fight wasn't bad enough to warrant that, Garcia wound up with a cut right eye, and Belloise finished with a gashed left eye.

85.8 PROOF 8 YEARS' OLD

IMPORTED BY S.S. PIERCE CO. BOSTON

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

THESE ARE cheerful days for the owners of two-year-old race horses . . . There will be a purse of $25,000 for the New England Futurity for two-year-olds at Narragansett Park tomorrow, while there will be $10,000 more for the Junior Champion, an event for two-year-olds, at Aqueduct on the same day.

Buddy Wingfield

In an effort to increase interest in breeding and in the training of thoroughbreds, race tracks throughout the country have been giving special attention to races for two-year-olds . . . The New England Futurity is the richest purse for two-year-olds offered by any of the New England tracks, and it will bring together a top field of starters . . . It is likely that when Starter Buddy Wingfield sends the field away from the Puett electrical starting gate tomorrow that the contestants will include Perisphere, Attention, Alaking, Sun Eager, Bull Brier, Swain, Coffeeman and Bugwhacker . . . The distance of the race will be six furlongs, and with such a classy field on hand it is expected that the race will be negotiated in fast time.

Harry I. Day's "Eye in the Sky" may have to be called upon to separate the horses at the finish . . . A week from tomorrow the $25,000 added Narragansett Special will be run, on September 28 the $5000 added James C. Memorial Handicap will be staged, while on October 5 the racing curtain will be dropped at Narragansett with the running of the $7500 added Governor's Handicap . . . There are plenty of rich purses for the horsemen to shoot at.

Yankees May Use Vitt on Farm Club

DOROTHY KILGALLEN, who writes a smart Broadway column, says the Yankees are dickering with Oscar Vitt to lead one of their farm clubs . . . Vitt is definitely through as pilot of the Indians as a result of the cry-baby tactics of some of his players . . . Meanwhile it is said Rollie Hemsley and Hal Trosky are each angling for Vitt's job . . . When the final decision as to Vitt's successor is made, there is certain to be additional discontent in the ranks of the Indians.

It is seldom that a professional club with ability has displayed as little intestinal fortitude as Cleveland . . . The team has quit on almost every occasion it has been put under pressure . . . Rival American League players are rooting for Yanks, Tigers or Sox to win . . . Nobody can cheer for a club that has shown as little spirit as the cry-babies.

Jake Driscoll, former Boston College sprinter, is back teaching school in Boston after taking special Summer courses at Cornell . . . Dick Harlow says the movies have standardized modern football, and that there are no more secret plays . . . Once a club shows a play, the movies make a complete record of it which is handed on to every football coach in the country.

Boston Bears Will Receive Support

SHELDON FAIRBANKS has realized another of his ambitions and secured a franchise for the Boston Bears in the American professional football league . . . The 28,000 crowd at the Redskins-All-Stars game under adverse weather conditions proved the popularity of the professional game in this city . . . If the weather had been perfect for the Redskins appearance here, Fenway Park would not have been large enough to accommodate all who wished to see the contest.

With such stars as Ronnie Cahill and Vito Ananis already signed, Fairbanks is not losing any time getting organized . . . George Kennealy, who has charge of the Bears' squad at Jefferson, has had a long experience in professional football and he should be of great value to Fairbanks in setting up his new organization . . . Fairbanks has a record of successful sports promotions at the Boston Garden, Wonderland Park and with the Sportsmen's Show . . . He is certain to surround himself with the right type of aides, while he will have patience to build a powerful club.

Professional football has made long strides since it was pioneered by "Red" Grange 15 years ago . . . When in Boston, George Marshall said that his Redskins' payroll is $110,000 a season with only 11 games scheduled to be played . . . Despite this overhead, the Redskins have been making close to $100,000 a year.

Items From My Private Notebook

ONE OF THE most amazing things about the playing of the Bees this season has been the hitting of John Cooney, veteran outfielder . . . Cooney is in the .300 class and pressing Bama Rowell for club leadership at the bat . . . Cooney continues to be a sure fielder . . . Like Lefty Grove, Cooney has refused to recognize the advance of the years.

A year ago last Spring at Bradenton, Fla., Casey Stengel told Cooney he would prove very valuable to the Bees as a utility outfielder, "I will prove good enough to be a regular," shot back Cooney.

CHAPMAN RALLIES TO LEAD

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP)—Dick Chapman of the Winged Foot Club staged a brilliant recovery on the back nine of his home course today to be 1 up on Wilfred Wehrle of Chicago at the half-way mark of their 36-hole semi-final National Amateur Championship match, after being 3 down in the first nine.

McCULLOUGH 4 UP

W. B. (Duff) McCullough, Jr., of Philadelphia, the stocky, 32-year-old business man who has been the consistent surprise of the tournament, finished his morning round 4 up on Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Billows, runner-up a year ago to Bud Ward, whom he eliminated yesterday, and to Johnny Goodman in 1937, was behind the eight-ball from the first hole, where he went over par.

McCullough was 3 up at the turn with even-par golf.

Schooling Races At Revere Tonight

Evening schooling races to condition the racing greyhounds for the approaching fall meeting at Wonderland in Revere start tonight and will continue tomorrow.

Thirty trial races involving nearly 200 greyhounds will be run off this evening. The public is admitted free of charge to the evening schoolings.

Greyhounds which start at the fall meeting Monday must have two schooling races, the results of which will be printed on the program. A majority of the trials are over the futurity course.

Tonight's schooling entries bring to post such greyhounds as Dark Victory, Work Out, Old Angus, Little Brother, Ermo, Mayor Mayr, Fern Nature, Sunset Lad, Twitter, Brave Gesture, Whitey Maddox and Mr. Loodeen.

54 Press Agent's Angling Beauty Made Many Converts

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1940

By DARK MONTREAL

More and better bathing beauties have landed more and better fish in the New England rotogravure this summer than ever before in the history of resort publicity men.

When the first summer resort hired the first publicity man, to and behold he arrived on the scene with a bathing beauty tucked under one arm, a fishing rod and a stuffed fish under the other.

In less time than it takes to bait up he had merged the trio against a background of sand and surf into a composite entitled Beauty Catches Whopper and had made the front page of glibbly journalism. The rod was a surf rod, the reel was a fly reel and the fish was a landlocked salmon slightly wizzled.

But the bathing beauty was a pip.

THE RUSH WAS ON

This picture and its subsequent and increasing variations did more to increase interest in angling than all the restocking programs of the 48 states plus Alaska. Men who had never wet a line went racing for tackle counters via the togger departments, coming up with a fine assortment of moth-eaten fishing equipment and a variety of sports costume ordered at night by department store buyers-on-parade. The rush was on.

That was away back in the days when your Aunt Emma was the golden girl of Newport in a black cotton bathing costume, cut high and long, plus black cotton stockings that wrinkled like the devil and sanded-up like nobody's business.

Aunt Emma in her outfit, with her stuffed fish and her mouse-trap tackle, is but a museum piece today but our forefathers knew no better.

As the passing years and the more revealing fashions laid bare the attractions of angling under supervision of the resort publicity men (who meanwhile graduated, cum laude, as press relations counsels) more and more of the male fraternity previously addicted to golf, baseball, craps, poker and polo became diverted if not devoted to the art of the angle.

Some even lived to like it and became real fishermen. Others continued over a period of years the hopeless quest for the spots where the beauties angle for the whoppers, seldom locating anything more congenial than a toothless crone dangling a flounder line from a bridge.

ENOUGH STUCK TO ROD

Others quit cold in disillusionment after a few weeks of fruitless hunt convinced that the bathing beauty angles only in the rotogravure.

Still, as I say, enough have continued the relentless quest for the angling beauty, or have really, through such search, come to enjoy angling without the beauty present, to give us at this writing the largest army of anglers in all the history of this country.

If this appears to be a dogmatic opinion based on false premise, let it not be misunderstood that I hold no brief for Beauty Catches Whopper, even though she has been responsible in great measure for the current popularity of angling. Many a spot of trouble she has been for us who really like to fish.

Vividly I remember the Monday evening a few months after the beginning of my marital bliss when I arrived home with a big Kajoga searchlight, and Mrs. Montreal inquired suspiciously:

"What's this new gadget you've wasted your money on now?"

And vividly I remember the lengthy and enthusiastic description I unfolded as to the merits of the light for night fishing for the striped bass which, just then, were on their fall feeding run.

The colder grew the atmosphere the faster I talked but there was an end even to the merits of a Kajoga light, and when my little lecture had run its course she said in a flat tone I have since come to respect:

"So now you plan to fish nights as well as days! Do the girls go at night, too?"

I cut her off and my conscience was clear.

"Girls!" I said, "What girls?"

"These girls!" said she, slapping down the previous day's rotogravure.

ONE OF EVERY KIND

There, my friends, were five variations of Beauty Catches Whopper. As I recall them, from left to right:

1—Snappy blonde holding dried-up, two-pound trout at Canton, Me. (This may have been an Ed. Place creation.)

2—Pip of a redhead holding a haddock at Haines Landing, Mooselookmeganic. (This may have been a Ben Levis creation.)

3—A gorgeous brunette holding a striped-bass at Old Silver Beach. (This was a Frank Cronin exhibit.)

4—A perfect yum-yum in a strapless one-piecer, locks flowing, playing ring-toss in the surf with a yellow perch at Hyannis. (Sam Berensen did that one by.)

5—An undisputed udder perched on a beached black-fish at Ogunquit. (That one came from Dick Reed.)

"Look, darling," I said, "Those are just in the papers. There aren't any girls go fishing where I go, day or night."

"Look," she said, "and don't darling me. Where you go fishing I go, day or night, from now on."

Well, of course, she was. Two or three times just to make sure, for that was in the days when your columnist was a very fetching number in khaki shorts and practically no bay window. Since the shorts shrank and the bay window was enlarged to command more scope of surf, this interference and suspicion have been practically nil.

I could go on and on with accounts of domestic troubles incited by press agents who go on and on depicting the beauty catching the whopper. But of what use?

The picture will still make the rotogravure and each new crop of angling widows will taste of the bitter cup of wormwood and suspicion.

One golden dawn recently I came to a stretch of lonely beach where a lovely woman was casting with perfection far beyond the wild break of a fury of surf. Her rod was the right rod, her reel the right reel and all the rest of her equipment was just right.

Her dark tresses were whipping in the wind, her scant silk bathing suit was moulded by spray about the audacious curves of her beautiful form, her big blue eyes were sparkling with excitement of the game. And while I watched she caught a fish—not a dried up fish, nor a stuffed specimen, nor one that somebody else had caught before. It was a real honest-to-goodness big fish, alive and kicking. She beached it on the silver sand above the lip of the tide and held it up for my inspection.

At this point I was roughly shaken by the shoulder and Mrs. Montreal inquired:

"What do you want a camera for?"

"Camera?" I said. "Was I muttering about a camera?"

"Muttering!" she exclaimed.

"You were yelling for one."

So I arose and got my Lee and climbed back into bed. But I couldn't sleep—I lay there toasting

THE BEAUTY with the slightly dried-up striped bass Betty Benheimer, of Jamestown, R. I. Ten guesses what she is doing with it. The publicity man who sent in the picture said there would be no charge for it.

We're stubborn about this thing

Yes, we're just stubborn enough to use only Hops, and Barley-Malt in our brewing—and no other grain! That makes us old-fashioned in this respect—but gives you the old-fashioned Malt Beer flavor most folks yearn for.

Here it is, an import-style beer at American prices—with a flavor that you can't find elsewhere, because only Trommer knows its secret, and only Trommer can brew White Label Malt Beer.

Today, try White Label — then Taste . . . and Compare!

This beer is made solely from hops and barley-malt and no other grain and is therefore a "malt" beer. This is the way fine imported beers are brewed; it is the distinction which, in popular opinion, sets Trommer's apart as a more palatable and thoroughly satisfying brew.

Blast Ruins—Smoking shells of buildings, shattered trees and a debris-spattered landscape make this air view of the ruins of the Kenvil, N. J., powder plant resemble London after a Nazi bombardment.

Victim

One of the men more seriously injured in the blast at Kenvil, this victim is carried into Dover hospital on a stretcher. Boy Scout, one of many who answered the rescue call, carries the victim aided by a civilian volunteer.

Treated

Rushed to Dover hospital after blast at powder plant, Frank Frenski, 52, and Frank Perna are treated for injuries. Frenski suffered a leg bruise, Perna hand and arm injuries. Other pictures on page 28.
